Strongman Role Is Cape Town Choice

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster was chosen today to become South Africa's seventh prime minister. He succeeds Hendrik Verwoerd, who was stabbed to death by an assassin a week ago.

Automatic Prime Minister

Vorster was elected unanimously as leader of the ruling Nationalist party at a party caucus. His only real contender, Transport Minister Ben Schoeman, withdrew. As Nationalist leader, Vorster automatically becomes prime minister.

Vows Security Reign

"I promise you that as far as it is humanly possible I will strive for the security of South Africa," Vorster told a crowd outside Parliament after his election. "As far as it pleases God Almighty to allow man to work out his own future and decide on his own destiny, the destiny of South Africa will be decided by ourselves."

Unanimous Choice

The party's unanimous choice, obviating a vote between contending candidates, was seen as indication of their resolve to choose a strongman leader, resolute in pursuing its apartheid (race segregation) policies without deviating from Verwoerd's race line.

Schoeman told the meeting that after serious consideration he had decided not to accept nomination as party leader.

As the only other candidate, Vorster was unanimously elected, thus preserving a facade of party unity and strength.

Vorster will now be called on by state President Charles Swart to form a government, which is expected to make its first appearance before Parliament Wednesday.

Vorster, 50, now regards the 13th as his lucky number. He was elected to the premiership on the 13th of September. He was born December 13, 1915. He is the 13th child in his family. This is his 13th year in Parliament and as justice minister he was 13th in the Cabinet seniority.

Jailed as Pro-German

He holds the portfolios of justice, police and prisons, and as the nation's top policeman has sharply curtailed activities of about 500 left-wing and liberal critics under the suppression of communism laws.

Vorster was interned for nearly two years during World War II for pro-German sympathies and is often pictured in newspaper cartoons wearing Nazi-style jackboots.

Is Inflationary President Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has vetoed a $90-million increase in government employe insurance benefits, declaring it is inflationary and inconsistent with his call for restraint in federal spending.

Johnson acted Monday night after the House Ways and Means Committee completed its first day of hearings on a key portion of the President's anti-inflation package: suspension of the 7 per cent investment tax credit and the tax-advantageous accelerated depreciation allowance.

Prepare Challenge

The veto came as Republican committee members prepared to challenge administration budget-cutting claims.

Led by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., the GOP members planned to question Budget Director Charles L. Schultze when hearings resume today.

Schultze said Monday the administration already is enforcing a "first slice" budget cut of about $1.5 billion.

Schultze, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor presented the Presi-

Red Guards Meet Stiff Resistance In Countryside

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's Red Guards are meeting stiff resistance as they push the cultural revolution from Peking into the countryside, Japanese correspondents reported today.

Battle 100,000

They reported that a crowd of 100,000 battled the youthful guards at Kweilin in southern China when the reformers demanded the resignation of the city's mayor and that army troops were called in to restore order.

In another development, Peking's official New China News Agency indicated that Premier Chou En-lai has been removed from his post as vice chairman of the Chinese Communist party. However, he apparently retained the premiership.

The Japanese correspondents reported from Peking that the clash at Kweilin, a city some 250 miles northwest of Canton, was one of several in a number of cities involving the Red Guards and local peasants and laborers.

The clash at Kweilin was reported by the correspondent of Yomiuri Shimbun.

Admit 'Certain Mistakes'

The Peking Peoples' Daily said Monday the students have made "certain mistakes," but added "no matter what the pretext, fighting between the students and farmers and laborers must not be permitted."

The reports of violence indicated that official advice in the

Refuse Plea On Renting Differences

Investigating Commissioner J. Edward Conway, of the State Commission For Human Rights today reported an order of dismissal of a discrimination complaint brought against Percy H. Burger by Rose Hawkins, both of Kingston, and the report cites an element of deception.

Complainant, a Negro, charged respondent with having unlawfully discriminated against her by refusing to rent her an apartment because of her race and color, and alleged that Caucasian friend of hers in answer to a newspaper advertisment, arranged to rent an apartment from respondent in complainant's name, and in so doing paid Burger $90 as a month's rent.

Was Rented

It was also alleged that subsequently complainant's friend informed Burger that the apartment had, in fact, been rented for a friend of hers, which action Burger is alleged to have approved.

"However," said the report, "when complainant's friend told Mr. Burger during the same conversation that her friend is a Negro, Mr. Burger withdrew his approval and refused to rent the apartment."

"Further attempts were made by complainant to see Mr. Burger, but he refused to meet with her or speak with her. Complainant was contacted by Mr. Burger's attorney, who wished to return to her the sum of money given Mr. Burger by complaint's friend."

The report notes an attempt by complainant to open an apartment door, but the key did not fit the lock, and continues:

Denies Charge

"Respondent denied the charge of unlawful discrimination contending that when he was informed that the Caucasian woman, who had rented the apartment, using complainant's name, was not in truth the person who was applying for the apartment, he felt he could not welcome as a tenant any person, who practiced or shared in a deception, which to him was without justification.

The investigation revealed that complainant's friend, re-

Planes Carry Out New Record Assault

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Waves of American bombers pounded North Viet Nam Monday in the biggest aerial assault of the war, the U.S. command announced today.

It was the second day in a row that U.S. planes mounted record raids, and pilots claimed inflicting damage on four surface-to-air missile sites and blowing up two Soviet-made missiles

Fly 170 Missions

American airmen flew 170 missions in all. This was one mission below the record set on Sunday but a U.S. military spokesman said the number of sorties (individual strikes) exceeded Sunday's by one.

The heavy assault involved between 400 and 500 individual strikes.

Ground action continued to lag. U.S. military headquarters reported no significant action. South Vietnamese headquarters reported two brisk engagements but none of large scale.

One Plane Lost

The air blows against the North Monday cost the American raiders one plane, a U.S. spokesman said. An Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down 45 miles northwest of Vinh and the pilot is missing.

During the forays, Air Force pilots hit at a missile site 30 miles northwest of Dong Hoi.

Pilots reported hitting two missiles. One, they said, went off into the air and exploded with a large orange fireball. The other was seen zigzagging erratically across the ground.

One the same site, U.S. pilots reported destroying two other missiles last Saturday.

Damage Missile Site

Air force pilots also claimed damaging a missile site 31 miles northeast of Thanh Hoa. In the meantime, carrier-based Navy pilots attacked two other areas 25 miles north of the port city.

In other developments, the U.S. military command issued orders to limit the number of American servicemen in downtown Saigon. Under the new order only a third of the men in any unit may receive passes allowing them to be out of their billets after working hours, and they must be off the streets by 11 p.m.

The Viet Cong claimed today they had "annihilated" nearly 600 South Vietnamese government troops in an ambush near Phy My last Thursday. Hanoi's Viet Nam news agency reported the Viet Cong statement in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

LBJ Takes Middle Road On Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is taking a cautiously optimistic middle ground between the enthusiastic reaction of some senators to the South Viet Nam elections and the doubts of a leading Senate critic of administration foreign policy.

"We are glad the elections were held and we are glad the people participated," the President told a news conference Monday night.

Sees Good Sign

"We think it is a good sign. We hope that they will go on and take additional steps."

But Johnson refused to be drawn into further discussion of the balloting which picked a constituent assembly to draft a constitution for the war-torn country.

He cut off one questioner by saying "those correspondents out there (in Viet Nam) can give you all the information. I don't want to be misunderstood or misquoted."

His remarks were more guarded than those of Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., who declared in a Senate speech that the Viet Cong "may well have suffered their Dien Bien Phu at the polls."

The battle of Dien Bien Phu led to the ouster of the French from Viet Nam in 1954.

Kuchel, the assistant Republican leader, called the election "an extraordinary demonstration by a poor and humble people of their courageous devotion to self-government."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the 80 per cent voter turnout was a tonic to "those who believe our faith in the Vietnamese and their desire for self-

3rd to Be Balked, Does Vital Task

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. cut short a space walk today and hurried back to the safety of the Gemini 11 cabin when "he got so hot and sweaty he couldn't see."

Gordon, husky, 36-year-old Navy lieutenant commander, remained outside only 44 minutes of the planned 115-minute excursion.

Third Straight Time

It was the third straight time that an American astronaut cut short a space stroll because of troubles.

Command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. flashed the word to a tracking station in the Indian Ocean that Gordon was back inside the spacecraft and that the cabin was repressurized.

"Listen," he said. "I just brought Dick back in. He just got so hot and sweaty he couldn't see."

"We know how it is," flight controllers on the ground radioed. "When it gets where he can't see, you've got to close the lid."

Trouble With Tether

Gordon had trouble organizing his 30-foot tether after opening the hatch and it apparently put a heavy work load on him.

Conrad had to hold onto the space-walker's legs to prevent him from floating out before he was ready.

"I'm breathing hard. I'm pooped," Gordon reported.

Once outside, Gordon moved over to an Agena satellite attached to the nose of Gemini 11. The astronauts had caught and docked with the Agena in record time after their launching Monday from Cape Kennedy.

Rode Like Cowboy

"Ride it cowboy." Conrad told him, and then reported to the ground: "He's riding it like a cowboy."

Gordon rested for several minutes as he sat astride the 26-foot target rocket.

Before calling off the stroll, he accomplished a task vital to a high-flying experiment planned Wednesday.

He unstowed one end of a 100-foot cord stored under the Agena docking collar. He attached the loose end to a ruler-like docking bar on the Gemini nose. The bulk of the line remained coiled in a stowage area on the Agena, the other end attached to the target satellite.

Conrad and Gordon plan Wednesday to disconnect from the Agena and pull the 100-foot line taut between the two vehicles to see if this is an effective, fuel-saving means of flying formation in space.

The short walk was reminiscent of the Gemini 9 flight during which astronaut Eugene A. Cernan overworked and had his

Step Up Check Of Measures in Dairy Products

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Inspections of measures of milk, cream and butter in markets have been stepped up in Upstate areas, as a result of disclosures of shortages in New York City, the State Agriculture Department said today.

Frederick Fallon, director of the bureau of weights and measures, said he had received no reports of violations in Upstate markets, however.

State inspectors check markets periodically, he said, but inspections were increased after violations were alleged in New York City supermarkets.

Last Friday, the New York City markets commissioner, Samuel J. Kearing Jr., said customers in branch stores of every major supermarket chain in the city, except one, had been getting short measures of milk, cream and butter. He said summonses listing more than 400 violations had been issued to 18 chain-store branches. The markets were not named.

Fallon said he did not know the New York City supermar-

Court Throws Out Motion on Funds

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state won a court decision today in favor of its new program of medical assistance to persons deemed needy, in the first legal battle over the controversial issue.

Would Block Funds

Justice Harold E. Koreman of State Supreme Court threw out a move to prevent the State Social Welfare Department from using public funds to make payments according to criteria established by the department and the State Social Welfare Board.

The action had been brought by John J. Robinson of Camillus, near Syracuse, who said he headed the Citizens Committee for Responsible Government.

Robinson claimed that there was "no reasonable basis" for the criteria and that the program would force him to move his business elsewhere.

Koreman found that Robinson lacked standing to petition because he had not alleged "any present special grievance, damages or injury to himself personally and privately."

Also, the judge said, Robinson did not cite specifics concerning invalidity of the criteria.

Two Denied Part

Koreman also rejected a motion to permit an insurance man and a physician to become parties to the petition.

The judge said the insurance underwriter had based his argument on speculation that his business would be damaged by a state provision limiting the amount of life insurance recipients can hold. The physician also failed "to allege any present personal grievance," Koreman said.

The insurance man was Donald C. Newton, and the doctor was Dr. Lee R. Stoner. Both have offices in Syracuse.

The state law, counting on federal assistance, went into effect last April 30, retroactive to

Urges Rosendale Residents Voice Views on Bypass

Ulster County Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson said today that he is urging residents in the Rosendale area to inform the District Engineer of the New York State Department of Public Works that they desire a public hearing as soon as possible on the proposed Route 213 bypass in the Village of Rosendale. Wilson said that preliminary plans now call for the reconstruction of a two-mile section of Route 213 on new alignment north of the village, and that the road would run from the Rondout Creek to Route 32. The assemblyman added the plans also call for a new bridge over the Rondout Creek.

Need Is Stressed

Assemblyman Wilson said he has been in contact with the DPW concerning the project, and has stressed the need of easing the present congested traffic conditions which exist on Main Street in Rosendale. According to Wilson, the new bypass would allow through traffic on Route 213 to travel around the village, but that the new road would not interfere with the local traffic, particularly shoppers, driving or parking on Main Street. Wilson added that if the plans are approved at the public hearing, and the acquisition of land can

Community Action Group Drafts $500,000 Plan to Fight Poverty

A half million dollar initial program to fight poverty in this county was announced Monday night at a meeting of Ulster County Community Action Executive Committee held at their offices here.

Douw S. Meyers Jr., committee president said the only thing holding up the implementation of the program is the lack of congressional action on the anti-poverty war. ntil this legislation —postponed several times—is passed, the local county office will proceed on a continuing resolution with a minimum program, he said.

Spent $9,079

In the last three months of the program development period the committee has spent a total of $9,079 in surveying county needs and formulating programs to meet them, according to Edward Schor, of Spring Glen, UCCAC treasurer.

Lawrence B. Siewers, UCCAC secretary and chairman of the technical Advisory Committee reported that the TAC had reviewed the present proposals and conducted a workshop on September 9. The TAC is composed of all public and private social agency heads, 30 of whom attended the workshop.

In an evaluation session the TAC learned that the method of program formation has two parts. One has been the analysis of figurers made available through county offices of the Welfare and Health Departments, the local New York State Employment Service and census compilations. Mrs. Jenny Krevolin, associate director and a Highland resident has been in charge of this. The second important method has been through the use of two part-time community organizers.

One of these, Al Brown of 26 Abeel Stret, has gathered residents of the Rondout Urban Renewal Area for discussions of what is needed to alleviate the plight of this area of poverty, unemployment and disadvantage. This Rondout Committee, under the chairmanship of Eddie A. Parker, 44 Abeel Street has evolved a plan for a Service Center, a Child Care Center and an After-School Child Care Center.

Also in Wawarsing

A similar task has been undertaken by Mrs. Mitzie Turkfeld of Ellenville in the Town of Wawarsing. The local committee there with strong representation from the beneficiary community has also proposed a Service Cen-

Governor Rockefeller Arrives Here On Campaign Swing; Addresses Lions

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller seeking a third term this November on the Republican ticket arrived in Kingston before 1 p. m. today.

He arrived shortly after at the Governor Clinton Hotel to attend Kingston Lions Club luncheon and to deliver an expected campaign speech. Hotel officials said more than 175 were at the luncheon.

A copy of his address was unavailable at Freeman press time. However, it is presumed he would continue on the "bossism" issue he discussed at Catskill this morning.

Earlier today, the Associated Press reported the governor rode into the Village of Catskill in a Model-T Ford and told voters not to let "the big-city boys" take control of state government.

Launching a two - day campaign swing Upstate, the Republican governor descended on the Catskill Country Club in a chartered helicopter then switched to the 1915 flivver.

He rode the main street of Catskill and addressed a crowd of about 300 persons from the steps of the Greene County Courthouse.

"New York State's rolling again," he said. "Let's keep it that way. Let's not let those big-city boys you know about take control of the state government."

Understood By Crowd

The remark, obviously understood by the audience carried forward the governor's favorite campaign theme — that the Democratic party is dominated by New York City bosses who seek to extend their sway to Albany.

Rockefeller shook hands along the sidewalks of Catskill's main thoroughfare before departing on a chartered bus for a luncheon speech at Kingston. His schedule today also listed a tour of the State Training School for Boys at Highland, an appearance in Newburgh and two dinner speeches at Kiamesha Lake.

Rockefeller began the day, aides said, by giving his 3 - year - old son, Nelson Jr. a short ride in the helicopter, which took off from the family's estate at Pocantico Hills. Rockefeller's pet dachshund, "Friendly," also went along.

Pressing his bid for a third

Aussie Demand Triggers Bolt At Commonwealth Parley

LONDON (AP) — An Australian demand for a dicussion of the Viet Nam war and other world issues forced the 22-nation Commonwealth Conference today to interrupt talks on Rhodesia.

The move by Prime Minister Harold Holt angered Foreign Minister Simon Kapwepwe of Zambia, who stalked out of the conference room and told newsmen outside "I am disgusted."

Delegates reported Holt arose during a secret session on Rhodesia to protest that after eight days the conference still had not come around to examining major world problems of the gravest importance to some member countries.

The outspoken Australian, whose country has troops fighting the Communists in Viet Nam, cited the crisis in Southeast Asia as one of the big issues which required urgent attention.

Prime Ministers Keith Holyoake of New Zealand and Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore supported Holt's intervention.

The upshot was that the conference moved to world affairs.

The ministers ordered senior officials to begin work on terms of a joint declaration setting forth their objectives in Rhodesia and methods by which they hope to bring down the rebel white-settlers minority regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Wilson was reported considering sending a senior government minister to Rhodesia in a final bid to persuade Smith to end his 10-month rebellion.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson today was reported considering sending a senior member of his government to Salisbury in a final bid to persuade Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith to end his 10-month rebellion.

The report came amid signs that the 22-nation Commonwealth conference was nearing a compromise agreement on a Rhodesia policy, particularly on the African member nations' demand that Britain withhold independence from the breakaway colony until black majority rule is established there.

Wilson had declined to make such a pledge and outlined a compromise program to a secret conference session Monday. Officials said although much bargaining on details remained, the deadlock over the issue

Community Colleges Trace Origin to 19th Century

(This is the second in a series of five general articles on the role of the community college as prepared by the educational staff of the Ulster County Community College.)

Some people mistakenly think the community college movement—like Ulster County Community College—is relatively new. They're wrong.

The community college can trace its beginning back to the junior college, first started toward the end of the 19th century.

From this early start the growth of two-year colleges have mushroomed. Each year now about 50 new ones begin, and this September more than 800 of these colleges are operating in the nation. New York State has played an important role in this growth. The state now has 28 community colleges in operation—including the one here in Ulster County—and five more have been approved for early operation by the State University's Board of Trustees.

These colleges came into being when the nation's population doubled between 1870 and 1900, and brought an accompanying enrollment inrease in the universities. As class size began growing and more students demonstrated an unreadiness for specialized and intensive work of the junior and senior years, the universities began separating the lower and upper divisions. The lower divisions, taking in the freshmen and sophomore years, were the forerunners of the junior colleges.

In the beginning, the university provided the major impetus for the junior college. Consequently, the greatest junior college growth occurred in states where the university had favorable and dynamic leadership. Also contributing to the development of the junior colleges were the two-year normal schools, institutes, gymnasia and seminaries. Meanwhile, some high schools expanded, adding the first two years of college work to their curriculums. All these institutions either assumed the junior college name or developed programs in harmony with purposes of the movement.

Kingston Academy Pioneer

One of the first two-year colleges in New York State was the old Kingston Academy, located across from where the present Governor Clinton Hotel is situated. The college's most famous student was Governor George Clinton, who transferred to Columbia College as a junior. His Kingston Academy courses were accepted as the first two years of his college work.

California was among the first states to set up junior colleges and has been a most prolific producer of these educational institutions. In doing so, California fulfilled community needs for college opportunities.

Gradually, the junior college grew in significance by expanding its purposes and functions. To fulfill them, the college had to broaden its program.

The junior college developed the central concept of being a local institution that met the needs of youth in the community. It was more than an institution to prepare a few for further college work, although that aspect was dominant in the early institutions.

The early wave of junior colleges was largely made up of private institutions. But over the years, the public institutions have grown in number and today have larger enrollments than the private ones.

The public junior college soon emerged as a community-centered institution. In this evolution, the name "junior college" seemed more and more inappropriate. This dissatisfaction triggered an intensive search for a new name. Emerging from that search was the name "community college." Possessing far more appeal than "junior college," it stuck.

The new name implies that the public junior college is community-centered, meeting the needs of a specific community. Besides, it accurately indicates the institution's shift of emphasis from a single purpose to multi-purpose.

The name junior college gives a college. Community college, on the picture of a small edition of the other hand, gives the image of breadth of services.

Need Is Realized

The great need for community colleges wasn't realized until right after World War II. That's when there was a sudden and unexpected influx of World War II veterans into the nation's colleges and universities, seriously overcrowding the higher education facilities. Then educators began to feel the time was ripe for the spread of the community college idea into all states.

Spotlighting the community college concept in 1947 was a report of the President's Commission on Higher Eeduation, which presented a definition of an emerging institution.

The definition is as follows:

"Whatever form the community college takes, its purpose is educational service to the entire community, and this purpose requires of it a variety of functions and programs. It will provide college education for the youth of the community certainly, so as to remove geographic and economic barriers to educational opportunity and discover and develop individual talents at low cost and easy access. But in addition, the community college will serve as an active center of adult education. It will attempt to meet the total post-high school needs of its community."

Soon it became apparent that community colleges offered the best hope of meeting the post-war surge for a vast expansion of education beyond high school and serving as centers for adult education. The goal was to have the curricular of these colleges combine general education and vocational training.

Close to Community

Today the community college is related closely to the life of the community it serves. Its offerings of curriculum and additional sponsered activities are determined by the real needs of the local student body rather than by mere academic tradition.

The program of the community college is geared closely to the vocational needs of the students. There are the general collegiate courses found customarily in the freshman and sophomore years of a four year college or university. But in addifers practical kinds of training tion, the community college offers practical kinds of training to prepare students for definite vocations in the community. The purpose of this is to meet the steadily increasing need for more highly trained personnel in industry, retail stores and other lines of the nation's business.

(Tomorrow's article will trace the development of the community college in New York State).

Wool Growers Urged to Vote In Referendum

All eligible wool growers were urged today to cast their ballots in the referendum on the wool and lamb market-development program. J. J. Sugden, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, said that he hopes for the most representative vote possible.

Growers eligible to vote are all those who have owned sheep or lambs six months of age or older for at least 30 consecutive days since last Jan. 1.

The vote will be held at the Ulster ASCS County Office, 54 John Street, through Sept. 23. Voting may be in person or by mail as soon as the ballots are received.

The vote will determine whether or not deductions will continue to be made from payments to producers under the wool program. These deductions finance a program of advertising, promotion and related activities to enlarge or improve the market for wool and lamb. The promotion program is carried out under an agreement made between the Secretary of Agriculture and the American Sheep Producers Council (ASPC), a producer organization, as authorized by the National Wool Act.

A similar agreement has been in effect since the 1955 marketing year, following approval by growers voting in referendums. For the agreement to be extended through 1969, as authorized by law, the September referendum must show approval by at least two-thirds of the total number of producers voting or by producers having at least two-thirds of the volume of production represented by the total vote. If a new agreement is not approved by producers, no deductions will be withheld from payments on 1966 marketings, and ASPC programs will be continued only as long as the present reserve fund permits or until some other agreement may be approved by producers.

By approving the proposed new agreement, producers would authorize deductions from payments of up to 1½ cents a pound on shorn wool and 7½ cents a hundredweight on unshorn lambs, compared with one cent and five cents in the past. The higher deductions, recommended by most of the state and regional member organizations of ASPC, would finance moderately expanded promotion programs for both wool and lamb.

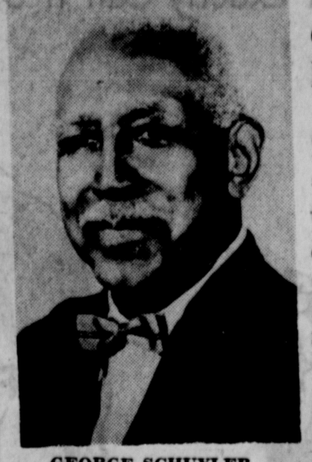

The chairman said that ballots are being mailed to all known wool and lamb producers by the ASCS County Office serving the county where the producer's farm or ranch headquarters is located, and this county office is where the ballots should be cast. Ballots may be mailed to the county office or delivered in person as soon as they are received; they should reach the office no later than the close of business on Sept. 23 in order to be counted.

Plans Scotland Trip

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he'll make a private trip to Scotland this month instead of a speaking visit to Poland, because the Polish government denied him a visa.

Graham's office in Atlanta announced Thursday that the Polish Embassy in Washington told the evangelist that now was not an appropriate time for his visit but encouraged him to try later.

Yggdrasil was the great ash tree of Norse mythology. It was the tree of life and knowledge and represented fate, time and space.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 13, 256th day of 1966. There are 109 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1814, Ft. McHenry on the Chesapeake Bay was bombarded by the British fleet. During this engagement, Francis Scott Key, a Baltimore lawyer, detained aboard a British warship, wrote the "Star-Spangled Banner," our National Anthem.

On this date:

In 1788, Congress made New York the capital city of the nation.

In 1851, American Army surgeon, Walter Reed, was born.

In 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt nominated Jesse Jones to be secretary of commerce.

In 1943, Generlissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was elected president of China.

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman hailed the 85th birthday of Gen. John Pershing and described him as a great American.

Ten years ago — Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai Stevenson, formally opened his campaign in a nationally televised speech. He attacked President Eisenhower, during the speech, calling him, in his words, "a part-time president."

Five years ago — President Kennedy suggested that the presence of U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at the opening of the U.N. General Assembly session would provide the opportunity for serious talk about problems of mutual interest, namely the Berlin crisis.

One year ago — Secretary of State Dean Rusk revealed that American troop strength in South Viet Nam had passed the 125,000 mark set as a goal by President Johnson the previous July.

Issue Warnings Of Counterfeit $10 Bills in Area

Warnings have been issued in the Albany area by the Secret Service urging residents, business firms and banks to be alert for counterfeit $10 bills.

Special Agent Andrew G. Daigle, in charge of the Secret Service's Northeastern New York District headquarters in Syracuse, said phony bills have been passed in a substantial but not alarming number in the Albany area the last several weeks.

Each counterfeit bill, it was said, has a large, circled A to the left of the portrait of Alexander Hamilton. The fake bills bear serial number A13905685 D, and are marked "Series of 1950 D" at the right below the portrait.

Authorities noted that the most noticeable defect in the counterfeit bills is the washed out, faded appearance on the back of the paper money. Daigle said the steps and columns of the buildings in the background lack enough shading lines to give them clear shape.

Anyone coming in possession of such bills, should immediately contact the nearest police agency and provide information of the place where the bill was given.

SOUTH AFRICA'S COURSE

No civilized man, however low his opinion of Hendrik F. Verwoerd's apartheid policies, can do other than deplore his assassination. When South Africa's prime minister was brought down by the murder's knife in Parliament this was, as President Johnson declared, "a stroke of violence that shakes the sensibilities of men who believe in law and order."

Some have seen in this desparate act another indication that we live in a time when resort to violence as a means of political action is on the increase. However that may be, it can be stated as a vallid principle that such use of violence is intolerable in a civilized society. The people have other means of ending tyranny, whether or not it is imposed by ostensibly democratic means.

This is easier said than done, granted. In South Africa the obstacles to change through due process are very great, and it is hard to see how the repressed black majority can feel encouraged. Yet the door has not been entirely slammed on discussion. Here and there a voice is raised. There is some reason to hope that, as South Africa continues to feel the pressure of world disapproval, improvements can be brought about. This will require understanding on both sides, and a willingness to compromise for the general good.

The assassination may prove to be a setback for reform. Even those who most passionately oppose apartheid cannot take comfort in the removal of its firmest advocate. There exists the grim possibility that the government will react by imposing even more severe repressions. South Africa's course in the weeks ahead will be watched with great anxiety.

Those high interest rates boost the cost of living—as does high living.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS

One field that does not insist on youth plus experience is the world of the volunteer worker. Although women with their children in school form the backbone of most community volunteer organizations, ages of unpaid workers range from eager children who accompany their parents to "golden agers" who wish to fill their time. Yet there are never enough volunteer workers to fill the need.

The unpaid worker stretches the budget of hospitals and social work agencies across the country. Statistics are impressive. One Midwest volunteer bureau records 105,000 hours donated in a year. Almost 5,000 persons serve annually as visitors to inmates of a state mental hospital, establishing the vital one-to-one relationship and aiding under-budgeted and under-staffed mental health agencies. Almost 500 unpaid aids supplemented the Head Start program in a city of half a million.

Statistics like this are repeated around the country. Some cities have volunteer bureaus to steer the worker to the place of need. In other communities the churches perform this function. Often social agencies are contacted directly.

The need to recruit more workers becomes particularly urgent after the summer's lull. The time to volunteer is now. The main qualification is a willingness to help. The pay in personal satisfaction can be very high.

A poll shows that teen-agers enjoy rock 'n roll more than adults do—which is about as revealing as a poll showing which age group has the most thumb-suckers.

HOW MUCH IS TOO MUCH?

The attorney for the accused murder of eight young student nurses in Chicago indicates he will try to have his client tried in some other community — one farther away from the scene of the crime.

He says he fears his man couldn't have a fair trial in Chicago because of publicity surrounding the case.

If his request is granted, then all the lawyer has to do is find a place where there hasn't been—and won't be—publicity about the murders.

This may take a bit of doing. After all, a man accused of murdering eight young women in one night is—guilty or innocent—likely to receive some attention, in and out of the newspapers, regardless of where he is tried.

One of the more intriguing questions involved in all this is, just how much publicity constitutes "the publicity" cited as harmful to a person accused of a crime?

DECISION ON THE MOUNT OF OLIVES

Old Jerusalem, Jordan — The dutiful pilgrim to Jerusalem follows a maze of alleys flanked by shops to the site of the Holy Sepulchre and the Crucifixion. The approach is dismayingly commercial and the Holy places themselves are overarched with what must literally be tons of masonry, to which more is being added as the stonecutters in the nearby workshops chip leisurely away at great blocks. The sound of hammer and chisel must have been the characteristic noise of the Middle Ages, and if one can forget the Arab sales pitches the scene is properly thrilling to the western pilgrim in search of his spiritual beginning. It is, however, scarcely journalism to describe what has been described many times before.

So a journalist on a stopover turns to look at modern Christianity at work. He finds it high on the nearby Mount of Olives, where a convent, a church, a chapel and a high bell tower all belonging to the Russian Orthodox church dominate the horizon. The view from the bell tower, where the fierce hot winds sweep through, is magnificant. Over in the haze there is a faint silver ribbon that looks like the Jordan. Down below is the Chapel of St. John, built over the spot where the severed head of John the Baptist was discovered after his body had been buried in distant Samaria, and next to the chapel is the church that had to be reconstructed after an earthquake. The ground, which provides just enough nourishment for the silver grey olive trees and the dusty cypresses, is historic, but it is what happens inside the convent that is truly moving.

The Abbess, a wise and delightful woman of seventy-six, is seated next to a priest. Facing them are two solemn, big-eyed and thoroughly frightened Arab girls who have sat motionless in the convent for hours. The children's grandmother is pleading for them. It seems that their father has turned Moslem and their mother has gone insane, and there is no one to take care of them. This poses a difficult decision for the Abbess. The girls are too young to become part of everyday convent life. Eventually a way is found out of the dilemma: a temporary place outside the convent will be found for the girls for three years, and then they will be taken in, to work and study, but not to become nuns unless they wish it.

Deciding the fate of waifs is, one supposes, all in the day's work for the Abbess. Though she is a round-faced woman who has won through to a great serenity, her countenance can still take on a look of cammand. She is direct, witty, and fluent in both Russian and English. She oversees the work of a hundred nuns.

The room she uses for an office is an interesting study in contrasts. On one wall there are the icons. Facing them are the portraits of past abbesses, and along the side wall the picture space is taken up by pictures of the royal house of Imperial Russia, including some famous ones of the family of the last Czar Nicholas. The fourth wall is hidden by rubber trees—caoutchouc trees, the Abbess calls them.

One's attention goes to the Romanoff portraits on the side wall. Yes, this is a Russian Orthodox convent, but it is not directed from Moscow. Priests from Russia are not allowed by the Bolsheviks to take part in ceremonies in Jerusalem, and it would be a drag on the overseas Russian Orthodox church to be under Moscow control.

The Abbess tells a story. The secular authorities in Moscow are unsleeping, and every so often they try to infiltrate the Russian church abroad. Though the Moscow government is officially atheist, it is not above using ecclesiastics to gain its own ends. Dubious persons have tried to become part of the life of the church on the Mount of Olives, and they have had to be screened out. The Bolsheviks have never gotten a foothold on the Mount of Olives. And the King of Jordan has always protected the Mount of Olives church.

The Abbess's name in the church is Tamara. But she was not always that. Long ago she was Tatiana Constantinovna. She knew the life of the great families of Old Russia, and the watering places of the Russian aristocracy in western Europe. Before she took the veil in middle age, she was a married woman, the mother of two children. Her father was Constantine Constantinovich, a famous translator of Shakespeare's "Hamlet" into Russian and a cousin of the Czar. The Abbess was born a Romanoff. She is probably the only Romanoff who, in a tangle with the Bolsheviks, ever had the last word.

Warfarin Is Rat Poison But Also Has Medical Use

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Do doctors ever give warfarin to human beings to dissolve blood clots? Isn't this a rat poison?

A—Warfarin will prevent clotting but will not dissolve clots. It is used as a rat poison but it has its legitimate uses in human medical treatment in carefuly regulated doses. Anyone who is taking this, or any other anticoagulant, should have weekly checks of his blood-clotting time.

Q—Is it possible to perform a hysterectomy and leave part or all of the cervix in place? If so, what are the advantages?

A—When a partial hysterectomy is done, the advantages are less risk of damage to the bladder and rectum, less risk of infection of the abdominal cavity (peritonitis) and hence a lower death rate. With improved techniques, however, these considerations are no longer very important and most specially trained gynecologists prefer the complete removal of the uterus. With the latter operation there is less danger of prolapse of the uterine stump and less danger of subsequent cervical cancer.

Q—My doctor says I have atrophy of the cervix. Is this serious? What is the usual treatment?

A—With advancing age after the menopause there may be some shrinking of the entire uterus. This is a normal process and requires no treatment.

Q—What are the five classes of the Pap test for women? Are all five considered to be cancer?

A—Class 1 is considered benign with no abnormal cells; repeat in one year. Class 2 is benign with a few abnormal cells; repeat in 6 months. Class 3 is benign with many abnormal cells; repeat in one week. Class 4 shows cells suggestive of cancer but not definitely so; a biopsy specimen should be taken. Class 5 shows cells that are definitely malignant; a biopsy specimen should be taken unless other findings confirm a diagnosis of cancer in which case the uterus should be removed without delay.

Q—My doctor is giving me Arlidin for my dizziness. I have been taking it for three months but no improvement. What are the pills for and are they harmful?

A—Nylidrin (Arlidin) is given to dilute the arteries in persons with hardening of the arteries, Reynaud's disease, Buerger's disease, leg cramps and vascular complications of diabetes. It would not directly affect your dizziness but might improve the underlying cause. Nervous tension and palpitation of the heart may occur if the dose is too large.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

"I Wouldn't Exactly Call It a Perfect Fit!"

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Men privy to the inner intelligence of European Communist parties say these Red groups are now getting secret reports of a small clandestine antigovernment group of young scientists uncovered by the Soviet police.

This clandestine group was composed, it's reported, of 200 to 300 young people — mostly chemists, students of chemistry and other scientists.

Though Moscow has attempted to keep the affair secret, it is now known that this group had secretly published two issues of an unauthorized review. It was called "The Bell" — after the clandestine review distributed by the 19th century Russian revolutionary Alexander Hertzen, despite the ban of the czarist police. About 1,000 copies of each edition reportedly were published.

The young people were charged with the criminal offense of "constituting a secret organization and operating a clandestine printing press."

It is known that at least 10 of the group have been sentenced by the People's Court of Leningrad. One science student was sentenced to seven years of "corrective" camp and "deprivation of liberty." Nine were sentenced for two-to-five year terms. Two of those known sentenced were girls.

The striking thing about this group is that they were strong Communists. The leaders were active members of Komsomol, the select Communist Youth Group.

The members of the organization said they were not opposed to the principles of communism. They were opposed to the way communism was being carried out in Russia. For one thing, they demanded more freedom of thought and speech.

The movement began in Leningrad. It gradually spread to Ivanovo, Voznesensk, a city with a long revolutionary tradition; Omsk; Novosibirsk and other important cities.

The thing that impressed some of the members of the West European Communist parties, apparently, was that the young scientists, when caught and tried, refused to disavow their ideas. Instead of recanting, some of the young people, at least, insisted that their cause was just.

Though this one incident of itself is perhaps of no great importance, the West European Communists see in this revolt of the young scientists the first signs of the development of a new leadership in the Soviet Union. These Communist observers think this is but one of many such revolts against the present concepts which will appear over the next several years —intellectual revolts which they anticipate will lead to changes within Russia.

These same Communist groups report that there are other strongly dissatisfied groups within the Soviet Union today. They have heard rumors, for example, that a group of old Bolsheviks, many of whom, freed from Stalinist concentration camps, had determined on a particular date to stage a demonstration against moves within Russia toward a return to the methods of the Stalin period.

The Soviet government apparently caught wind of the demonstration in advance and quashed it by filling Red Square with large numbers of security forces.

But the West European Communist observers noted the police and troops hadn't quashed the idea of a demonstration.

LBJ Faces Tough Decision; Halt Boom in Election Year

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has made a start toward restraining the artificial boom of the last three years and the growing inflation which has been threatening a business depression. His hesitancy may have been due to a fear that the cure might prove worse politically than the disease itself. But now he has found himself compelled by circumstances to recommend some restrictive measures even though a very important event—the congressional election — is less than two months away.

Nobody can be sure that the palliatives suggested by the president will proye adequate or that, in the two years ahead, he will be able by further experiments to stabilize the whole situation sufficiently to win voter support for his own re-election.

But today candor requires the statement that the economic experts are far from unanimous in the belief that a depression will be prevented.

Tampering Risky

The reason is that tampering with the national economy—as a politically minded administration feels inclined to do from time to time — is risky. The mere suspension of a tax credit for plant improvement or even the creation of more funds for mortgage borrowers can hardly bring the necessary relief from the perils of inflation. For the administration is face to face with the cumulative impact of several years of government spending in excess of tax collections and a refusal to restrain a well-organized and all-powerful political minority which bludgeons the producers of goods and forces them to pay higher and higher wages. So there is only one answer—higher and higher prices. Concurrently, the cost of living has been rising substantially.

Public confidence in the dollar is, therefore, sagging. Its purchasing power has been steadily going down. The rest of the world worries whether devaluation of the monetary unit here may be in prospect and this always brings grave problems, as happened in the 1930's.

President Johnson naturally is expected to act as the nation's leader. It is his duty to recommend and press for the kind of action that will achieve and maintain economic stability. But he is afraid today of organized labor and tries indirect remedies, as, for instance, the suspension of a tax credit for certain corporate expenditures. He does so knowing full well that the number of jobs may be diminished somewhat by such a move and that modernization of plants to compete with foreign goods will be delayed.

Mr. Johnson argues that this is only temporary. Yet the net effect may be to increase unemployment while nothing whatever is done to curb the exercise of an arbitrary power which pushes upward wage rates by threatening work stoppages or actually calling costly strikes.

Meanwhile, the government has been running in the red year after year, and the fallacy is still espoused that "deficit spending" is healthy and stimulates business. It has, however, produced a dangerous inflation, and now the President is confronted with the problem of curtailing government spending without offending the groups that have been benefiting from government largess.

Temporarily Mr. Johnson has given the impression that he "is doing something about it all." But in the next two months no important change in the economic situation will be felt. After the November election, the President will have to decide whether he will ask Congress for much more drastic measures — such as wage-and-price controls and a general tax increase — or whether he will gamble with the future. To do so means risking a break and a depression in the election year 1968.

Sweeping Discontent

The discontent which is sweeping the country today may be reflected in a reduced majority for the Democratic Party in Congress. Such a result will be a warning to the President that he must take certain steps to overcome the effects of whatever economic changes start to appear after the November election — whether they be called the beginning of a depression, recession or readjustment. But there is a basis for worry and caution, and nobody performs a service by glossing over the main facts.

The country is hearing much about the increase in interest rates and the need to "ease" the money market. But these are mere symptoms of the deeper weakness in a boom economy which has been adversely affected by unnecessary spending of government funds and an acquiescence in the misuse of the collective-bargaining power in America. It will take more courage than has been exhibited heretofore in political Washington to mitigate the consequences of these past mistakes.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

The lights on the streets of Kingston are being discussed, so I see and hear this first week of September, 1966. Recently I gave the information I obtained from various sources on the lights in Kingston. Further I found out, that those sturdy wooden poles on side streets, which belong to the Central Hudson and have fine electrical fixtures and give good service to the city give less trouble than the metal ones on the business districts of Kingston. These poles are usually of yellow pine with creosote and are some 35 feet long. They go into the ground some 5 feet. The holes are often dug with an automatic digger. These poles perhaps are from the forests of Michigan. What a wonderful country we have, which has everything, all we have to do is go and get it. The iron poles have four metal anchor rods on the bottom which are only 27 inches long, and fit into a base of some sort of cement, I understand. They rust and rot and have to be replaced now and then.

I understand there will be a committee appointed to think about the lights of Kingston. like steam was not allowed to be used by the Navy in the 1860's when sail could be used with wind so the lights of Kingston were not lit on full moon nights. They figured they would save at least 3 nights out of a month. This is from the notes from Irvin L. Gardiner's letter of Feb. 1, 1962 who had been one of the lamp-lighters of Kingston back in the late 1880's. He was 11 when he carried a step-ladder and a five Gallon can not quite full to each lamp which took about a pint. The lights burned until about midnight. He received $10 a month. George Bush had the contract and employed Gardiner. The poles were 11 feet high, so a horse and wagon could go under it.

On May 1st, 1854, there was the Rondout and Kingston Gas Works on Meadow Street, between Ann and Hasbrouck Avenue. In 1856, some 110 years ago, that the Rondout and Kingston Gas Light Co. turned on Gas lights, according to a Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. item in Leader of Nov. 23, 1938. The first electric company called Kingston and Rondout Schuyler Electric Light Co. is mentioned in 1886. In 1902 two services consolidated to form Kingston Gas and Electric Co.

According to Judge Clearwater's wonderful history of Ulster County "The first gas light to be used in Kingston was installed in the Mansion House at the corner of Broadway and West Strand, by Major George F. Von Beck." Major Von Beck designed and built the Mansion House and the Masonic Temple on the other corner. He also owned and established the brewery in Connelly which started that community and was one of the builders of Rondout, which buildings are still standing as firmly as they were first built.

I was talking to Mrs. Grant (Loretta) Johnston of Sleightsburg and Florida on the telephone and she told me that during the fireman's parade she did not see any decorations on buildings except flags. In her day she and her husband used to decorate the stands and many of the tall buildings and also the inside of the Municipal Auditorium. She easily climbed one to six extensions of the ladders and with buntings and banners and flags decorated for such an event. Mr. Johnston would paint the banners like "Welcome Firemen" which would be in the center and pull down, tassels, and fans and bunting draped all around. She did it for some 30 years. The Governor Clinton and the Stuyvesant were decorated by her in that fashion. I used to watch her work. She did it so expertly, and easily, and always joked and knew everyone who watched. There just isn't another Mrs. Johnston. It was also done artistically, always centered and balanced. I also understand their work was very reasonable.

Claims Sheriffs' Offices Lack Sufficient Funds

Frank Edward Becker of Poughkeepsie, Conservative Party Candidate from the 38th New York State Senatorial District, has made allegations that the sheriff's departments in both Ulster and Dutchess Counties are unable to operate at "top efficiency" because of lack of sufficient funds. He alleges that the Ulster County sheriff's patrol cars are "serious lacking in basic safety equipment such as fire extinguishers, first aid kits and ropes" and that deputies complain they seldom have adequate flares to safely mark the scene of accidents.

"Although cars are equipped with breathing apparatus, deputies are not trained in its use", the Dutchess county candidate claims.

"Who is responsible for these shortages? Has the Board of Supervisors appropriated funds for this equipment, or does the fault lie with someone within the sheriff's department?"

Becker says he is "increasingly concerned" with the fact that the sheriff's departments in both Dutchess and Ulster Counties seem to lack "sufficient funds to operate at top efficiency." If elected to the State Senate, Becker says, he intends to try to remedy the matter.

Copies of a communication in which the matter is discussed have been sent to Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin, District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca and the Board of Supervisors.

Funds Requested

Sheriff William B. Martin said today funds were lacking in the present budget to purchase sufficient equipment to fit out all of the patrol cars. However in the budget which he has submitted to the Board of Supervisors Budget Committee for the coming year, Sheriff Martin said he had requested sufficient funds to place the needed equipment in all patrol cars.

"Many of the items mentioned are expendible articles which need replacement from time to time. When I came into office there was a lack of many of the items and the funds provided in this year's budget were not sufficient to purchase many needed items", Sheriff Martin said. "However I have requested in next year's budget funds sufficient to cover these items," he said.

Sheriff Martin stated that it was because of lack of funds that all of the patrol cars had not been fitted out with all of the necessary equipment.

Stewart AFB Gets $154,000 Portion Of Military Tab

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a $1,005,842,000 military construction authorization bill that includes five projects in New York State.

As he signed the bill Monday, the President noted that he strongly objected to a provision for notifying Congress before a military base could be closed.

The project sites and amounts for New York State.

— Griffiss Air Force Base, Rome, $225,000.

— Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, $154,000.

—Watervliet Arsenal, Watervliet, $955,000.

Hear Testimony On Try to Halt NYC-Pennsy Weld

NEW YORK (AP) — A Federal Court judge hears testimony today on the attempt of several railroads to derail the government-approved merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Systems.

The merging lines were ordered Tuesday to show cause why a three- judge panel should not be convened and an injunction issued pending a review of the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision to allow the consolidation.

The merger, scheduled to take effect Sept. 30, is being contested by the Baltimore & Ohio, the Norfolk & Western, Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie-Lackawanna and Delaware & Hudson railroads. Another line, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, obtained the show cause order, as an intervening plaintiff.

"The very size of a merged Penn-Central system and the ability of that system to provide single-line rail service throughout most of the East would inevitably divert traffic from other eastern railroads," the B&O, the N&W and the C&O said in a suit filed Tuesday.

The three lines themselves plan to merge into a system about the size of the consolidated Penn-Central.

The railroads — suits by the Erie and the D&H were filed last week — were expected to be joined shortly by the Boston & Maine in contesting the merger.

The petitioners charged that the Pennsylvania made "false representations" to the ICC about merger prospects, and said the Penn-Central consolidation would have "substantial impact" upon them and other railroads.

The ICC announced April 27 it would permit the Pennsylvania and Central to merge into a $6 billion system. The effective date of the consolidation has been postponed twice with some 18 other parties asking the ICC for further hearings.

L. I. Railroad Tests Highspeed Travel Service

RONKONKOMA, N.Y. (AP) — The Long Island Railroad has started eight months of testing an experimental railroad car, powered by twin gas turbines and designed to cruise at 75 miles an hour.

Railroad officials predict that some day travel time may be cut in half on the nonelectrified part of the commuter line.

Turbine in Future

William J. Ronan, chairman of the Metropolitan Commuter Transportation Authority which has run the railroad since February, says it is hoped that turbine trains will replace diesel equipment on the railroad's eastern passenger runs.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was in the motorman's cab Tuesday as the car made its first run from here to Central Islip and back.

The car will be tested, six days a week and 16 hours a day, over the 20-mile stretch between here and Farmingdale. The only persons aboard will be technicians.

Ronan said the new car can travel up to 100 miles an hour, but speed is not its major promise. He said the goals include faster acceleration and better braking than diesel trains offer, along with improvements in fuel efficiency and maintenance.

Has Potential

"This has tremendous potential for the commuter," Ronan said during the inaugural trip. "If it works out the way we hope, we should have a high performance, economic train useful throughout the metropolitan area."

The car is being tested under a demonstration project costing $1.38 million. The federal Department of Urban and Housing Development is paying two-thirds of the cost. The remainder is being shared by New York State and the Budd Co. of Philadelphia, manufacturer of the prototype car.

The railroad hopes to have four-fifths of its 90,000 commuters traveling in electric-powered trains within three years through a $200 million electrification extension program. The remaining fifth would be carried in cars like the one being tested.

The railroad also hopes to combine electric and turbine power in a single train.

Ronan said.

"We're seeking a two-headed monster — a train that will travel by turbine from eastern Long Island, switch over to the third rail closer to the city and avoid the familiar change at Jamaica."

Gives Robbers Battle

OLD BATH, Ind. (AP) — "Put all your money in a bag," two youths with guns ordered grocery owner Grace Miller.

The 68-year-old woman, barely 5-foot, grabbed the barrel of one youth's 22-caliber revolver Monday and scuffled with the teen-agers. The youths fled and were picked up by police two hours later after Mrs. Miller reported their auto license number.

"They thought they had somebody who was easy," she said. "But I wasn't."

Plan State-Wide Traffic Safety Seminars in Fall

Eight regional two-day traffic administration seminars in key population areas throughout New York will be presented by the State Traffic Safety Council; New York State Association of Chiefs of Police; New York State Police; New York State Sheriffs' Association; and 26 other local, state and national agencies. They will start October 10 and 11 and wind up December 6 and 7.

Joseph Kusaila, executive director of the State Traffic Safety Council, said "The workshops will offer an opportunity for supervisory personnel assigned to traffic duty to work out practical solutions to their day to day problems as well as help with their long range planning."

He added: "Although a great deal of progress has been made in providing basic and in-service training for police officers in accident prevention work, first-line traffic supervisors need instruction in the newer concepts and procedures as good supervision of the traffic division is an essential requirement for effective law enforcement."

Topics to be covered will include the President's Action Program for Highway Safety and the Highway Safety Act of 1966; principles of administration; basic traffic engineering; human relations in traffic administration; and applications of business management techniques to control work. Speakers and panelists will include traffic law enforcement officers, traffic engineers and leading safety experts in the state.

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't always what they are doing but how they are doing it that makes the difference. They were playing comedy in all sorts of ways in the television shows making their debuts Monday night.

Nine new shows were unveiled, of which this viewer saw six, all half-hour programs.

Not Too Novel

"Family Affair" on CBS is pegged to what is hardly a novel idea — a happy bachelor and his man servant who are unexpectedly saddled with some children. But if the mood and tempo of the first program can be maintained, this promises to be a warm and charming comedy.

Brian Keith plays the uncomfortable foster parent with great sensitivity and Sebastian Cabot s a perfect British gentleman's gentleman appalled at the prospect of child care.

Jean Arthur, a lady with a skillful way with a comedy line came back to show business in a CBS series that, at first look, seemed unworthy of her talents. Miss Arthur in "The Jean Arthur Show" plays a very successful woman lawyer in partnership with her son. But in the rather feeble episode Monday night they had her running furiously around in rather misguided efforts to help a fellow with gambling fever beat a murder rap.

"Felony Squad" on ABC, was simple police action. The principal characters are almost cliches now—the older plainclothes lieutenant, played with grim intensity by Howard Duff, and his young partner whose father is an older uniformed the first show revolved around a crooked lawyer trying to frame the young cop.

Two early evening entries, "The Monkees" on NBC and "Run, Buddy, Run" on CBS were broad comedies apparently intended to delight the young audience.

"The Monkees," a rock 'n' roll group complete with long hair, were involved in a story about a beautiful princess and her wicked uncle who was trying to kill her. The nonsense was further funnied up by effects like an electric light going on when the villain had an idea and all sorts of non sequiturs.

"Run, Buddy, Run" had a fellow fleeing a sinister criminal syndicate bent on murdering him, tut depended on its humor in such side excursions as a wild motorcycle ride through a busy supermarket. Decision should probably be reserved on this one since the first show had to get Buddy, played by Jack Sheldon, started on his flight and comic adventures.

"The Roger Miller Show" on NBC was a pleasant enough, low-key variety half-hour, particularly when Miller was singing his own songs in his off-hand way and had Bill Cosby at his side making small talk.

Health for All

Going — But Not Gone

Speaking of disease eradication, as doctors often do, a study made public by the World Health Organization dramatizes the difficulties of that enterprise.

The WHO was on tetanus — one of the diseases you would least expect to hear about in the second half of the 20th Century, considering the progress made in immunization. In the United States, it's true, tetanus isn't very far from the vanishing point, with the annual number of cases down to about 350. But on the world scale, while no precise figures exist as to number of cases, the disease is known to kill more than 50,000 each year.

And—here's the rub—it's axiomatic among physicians that a disease can't really be said to have been eradicated anywhere until it's been wiped out everywhere.

Tetanus, familiarly known as lockjaw, is caused by a germ whose common habitat is in the soil, though it also is found in the intestinal tracts of human beings and animals. It enters the body through wounds or lesions—anything from a scratch to a serious injury. It once was a serious menace to armies in war, but by World War II it was so well controlled that the problem was minor, at least among the forces of the more developed nations.

Thriving best in tropical areas where sanitation and medical care are less than adequate, tetanus takes its greatest toll today in Africa. In the United States it occurs most frequently in the South, with a death rate among non-whites about five times that of whites.

Tetanus vaccination is recommended and widely practiced in the United State . A course of three injections establishes basic immunity; to maintain it, booster shots are required every three to five years.

Defendant Acquitted

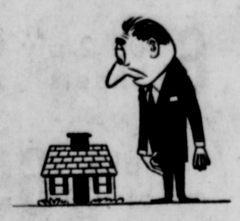

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)— After deliberating for three hours Monday, an Erie County Court jury acquitted Robert E. Jackson, 29, of Chicago, of 10 charges in a $16,000 robbery at the home of a banking executive Aug. 28, 1965.

Jackson and two other men were charged with breaking into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour H. Knox near East Aurora, threatening the couple and taking $15,000 in jewelry and $1,070 in cash. Knox is board chairman of the Marine Midland Corp.

Last June, Judge Jacob A. Latona of Erie County Court dismissed charges against Jackson's co-defendants, basing his action on a recent U.S, Supreme Court decision ruling out confessions secured from persons before they are allowed legal counsel.

The others were James M. Paulson, 21, of Buffalo and James H. Evans, 22, of Chicago.

In mythology, Argo was the name of the ship used by Jason in his quest for the Golden Fleece.

Grand Slam Is in His Hand

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When today's hand was played back in the late thirties South rattled off four rounds of trumps and discarded a club and a diamond from dummy.

Then he led a heart to dummy's ace, ruffed a heart, led a club to dummy's king, ruffed another heart and remarked, "I am going to cash three diamonds. If West started with five hearts and four clubs he is going to be squeezed and I will make seven."

West showed his hand. South settled for six at which point the late M. D. (Jimmy) Maier, one of the greatest players of all time who was watching, said, "The way the cards lay you should have made seven by means of a logical series of plays."

South disagreed, whereupon Jimmy demonstrated the way to make the grand slam. Can you figure it out?

He ran off the same four trumps but discarded two clubs from dummy. Then he led a heart to dummy's ace and ruffed. Next came three rounds of diamonds with dummy holding the lead. At this point everyone was down to four cards. Dummy held ace-king of clubs and the jack and one heart. South held three clubs and a trump. West held a heart, two clubs and a diamond and East held the equivalent of a live rattlesnake. He could hold three clubs and one heart. In that case Jimmy would ruff a heart with his last trump and dummy would be good. Or East could hold two clubs and two hearts. In that case Jimmy would cash dummy's ace and king of clubs and make the last two tricks in his own hand with a trump and the remaining club.

Reports Funding For Greene Job

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick announced today final approval, authorization and funding of the three and a quarter million dollar Batavia Kill Water Shed Project in Greene County.

"The Department of Agriculture has already scheduled geological investigations, and they plan to complete on-site investigation of the largest of the six proposed dams by early fall. Designs will be completed during winter, and bids will be let on April 1," Resnick said.

"The County Board of Supervisors is now in the process of organizing a County Small Watershed protection District which must be organized in order to finance the local share of the cost. I'm proud that our efforts have finally resulted in the successful conclusion of this project. Batavia Kill is now definitely on the move," Congressman Resnick said.

Dear Abby . . .

Child Getting the 'Bad Deal'

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have taken a teen-age cousin into our home as she is in trouble. We have children of our own and are financially able to care for this girl and pay all her expenses. She has one year of high school left, which she will finish after her baby is born. Now the problem: She wants to keep her baby. We have had our doctor and lawyer talk to her, and no one can get thru to her. She thinks it is a "sin" to give away her own flesh and blood.

Abby, this child is 16, the boy will not marry her (for which she is lucky, as he is only a kid himself and not much good). My husband and I would adopt the child as a compromise, but we want her to put her past behind her, go on to college, and start life over where no one knows of her mistake. We need your help in convincing her that this would be best for her and the baby. Please help us.

NO NAME, NO TOWN

DEAR N.M., N.T.: It would appear that the girl, under the guise of selflessness and sacrifice, feels guilty and is determined to punish herself for her mistake. Actually, she would be punishing the child more.

For you to adopt the baby would be as grave a mistake as for her to keep it. I know of no one more qualified to deal with "sin" than a clergyman. Ask yours to talk to the girl.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a boss who hasn't a thing to do all day but sit around and stare at his secretary? Actually, there isn't enough work for ME to do here. He's about 60, owns a small business and has no outside interests.

I've tried bringing him magazines and even crossword puzzle books, which he hands back to me without even looking at. He won't go home because he fights with his wife. He is so ignorant it's impossible to hold a conversation with him. One day I mentioned contact lenses. He'd never heard of them, and thought I was crazy when I tried to explain how they fit into your eyes.

He gets mad when I refuse to go to lunch with him. He's had nine secretaries in the year before I came. I've been here ten months and I'm bored stiff. I hate to quit because the pay is good and it's near my husband's work, but this man is making me nervous. Any suggestions?

OUT OF IDEAS

DEAR OUT: Yes. Be Number Ten.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 55, and am quite lonely. I knew a widower a few years older than myself — just a speaking acquaintance. His wife was a friend of mine.

My son gave me two tickets for a show, so I wrote this gentleman a little note, telling him how I came to have these tickets, and I asked if he would like to accompany me.

He never acknowledged my letter. I felt foolish, so I wrote another note asking him to please accept my apologies for having been so forward. He didn't answer that note either.

I see him occasionally, and he always smiles and says hello. People say he is very shy. Should I do anything more, or shouldn't the next move be his? I'm afraid I've made a fool of myself.

LONELY

DEAR LONELY: The gentleman is shy all right—shy good manners. He should have acknowledged your first note one way or the other. You may be "lonely," but you're better off alone than in the company of one who appears to be an ill-mannered scairty-cat.

County Court Disposes of 3 Criminal Cases

Three criminal cases were disposed of in County Court Monday afternoon before County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon moved for sentence in the case of Arthur Elting, 51, of 116 Henry Street, who was indicted for violation of the gambling law. Elting through his counsel, Charles Gaffney, entered a plea of guilty to violation of Section 975 of the Penal Law, unlawful possession of policy slips. Elting had a previous conviction on a charge of being a common gambler. Judge Mino imposed a 30-day jail sentence and a $500 fine, exonerated bail and committed Elting to the custody of the sheriff to begin the jail sentence.

Sentence Suspended

A 60-day jail sentenec was suspended in the case of Jesse Louis Caprotti, 45, of 141 Washington Avenue and a $500 fine was imposed after defendant pleaded guilty to possession of policy slips. Charles Saccoman appeared for defendant.

Russell Butler, 22, formerly of Newburgh, who was returned to Ulster County from Chicago where he was employed, was sentenced to three months in the county jail on his plea of guilty to unlawful entry. James R. Myers appeared for Butler. Credit for time served in jail was allowed and Butler said he intended to return to Chicago where he had a job. Butler, who had served six months in the Orange County jail on a burglary charge, had been indicted for third degree burglary, second degree grand larceny and unlawful entry by an Ulster County grand jury.

Two civil actions were announced settled. They were:

An action for services rendered brought by Hoyt S. Armstrong aganst Joseph LaRusso, Saccoman and DiDonna for plaintiff.

Negligence Action

An automobile negligence action brought by Ida Reffaro against Frank J. Landi. Francello and Brinnier appeared for plaintiff and Hartsell and Harrington with Alfred Schleider as trial counsel for defendant.

An action for rental due brought by Ralph C. Herman against Steve Smith was striken from the calendar. William M. Gruner for plaintiff and John B. Wilkie for defendant.

Report Progress On New Albany Airport Runway

Work on construction of a 1,000-foot addition to the 5,000-foot runway at the Albany Airport is progressing ahead of schedule, and it is likely that airlines serving the airport will be landing their big jets by Nov. 1.

The target date had been set when the contract was awarded the Callanan Road Improvement Corp., at Nov. 1. Work crews have been favored with good weather.

Extension of the south end of the north-south runway is one phase of the project. The Watervliet - Shaker Road was partly closed and a turn-around is being constructed in the road at the east side of the runway extension.

Albany - Shaker road is being "bent" for 2,600 feet to accommodate electronic landing equipment and antennae that will be placed at the most southerly end of the new runway.

New lighting in mercury vapor lamps will replace existing street lights along the main road leading to the terminal building.

In anticipation of a large increase in business volume at the airport, another project underway is the expansion of the already crowded parking lots in front of the terminal building to accommodate an additional 450 cars.

Sympathy Vote Could Bring Win Today For Rolvaag in Minn. Statehouse Race

Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota, denied endorsement for renomination by the state Democratic-Farmer-Labor convention, tries for a primary election vindication from the voters today.

In Massachusetts, Democrats settle a pair of hot contests over nominations for governor and senator.

Eleven states are holding primaries in the year's busiest day for ballot boxes except for Nov. 8 when all 435 members of the House, 35 senators and 35 governors will be elected.

Other states conducting primaries are Arizona, Colorado, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Rolvaag's primary opponent, endorsed by the convention, is Lt. Gov. A. M. (Sandy) Keith, 37.

Keith's backers argued in the convention that Rolvaag, 53, couldn't be re-elected. He was elected to his first term in 1962 by 91 votes.

The dumping of Rolvaag stirred a wave of sympathy in the state. Many political analysts regarded him as the favorite in today's balloting, expected to bring out 600,000 to 700,000 votes.

In Massachusetts, Edward J. McCormack former attorney general, contends with Kenneth P. O'Donnell, once an aide to President John F. Kennedy, for the Democratic nomination for governor. McCormack, a nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., was endorsed by the state party convention.

Former Gov. Endicott Peabody, endorsed for the Senate nomination, is opposed by Mayor John F. Collins of Boston and Thomas B. Adams, a Boston businessman.

Of the 11 states, nine elect governors this year. Republican Govs. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, John A. Love of Colorado, John H. Chafee of Rhode Island and Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin are unopposed for renomination.

Democratic Govs. Philip Hoff of Vermont and John W. King of New Hampshire also have no primary opposition. Democratic Gov. Sam Goddard of Arizona, like Rolvaag, is involved in a primary contest.

In Maryland, there are eight bidders for the Democratic nomination to succeed retiring Democratic Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Apparent front runners are Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan and Rep. Carlton R. Sickles. Spiro T. Agnew, Baltimore County executive, appears sure of Republican nomination in a field of five.

Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and David Carley, national committeeman, clash in Wisconsin for the Democratic nomination against Knowles.

Six-Way N.H. Race

New Hampshire has a six-way contest for the Republican nomination against King, and there is also a Republican primary in Vermont for the right to battle Hoff in the election.

Among senators running for re-election, Republicans Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Gordon Allott of Colorado, and Democrats Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island and Thomas H. are without primary opposition. McIntyre of New Hampshire are without primary opposition. Democratic Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota has nominal opposition.

The Massachusetts Senate seat to be filled this year is now held by Republican Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, who is retiring.

Edward W. Brooke, state attorney general, has no opposition for Republican nomination. Brooke is a Negro, and if elected would be the first of his race elected to the Senate in this century.

Lt. Col. Ruth Briggs, a retired WAC, is bidding for the Republican nomination in Rhode Island against Pell.

Another woman candidate is Margaret M. Heckler, 35, a lawyer and housewife, who is running against former House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, 81, for a Republican House nomination in Massachusetts.

Santosky Fund

I want to take this opportunity to compliment the Freeman on the coverage of the Jacqueline Santosky story. It was in the finest tradition of the fourth estate. Tobie Geertsema's summation on the Saturday of her death caught the spirit of the contributors and accurately reported the battle of the people of the Hudson Valley waged to save her.

The contributors should be advised that we have on deposit $23,565.94. There are outstanding bills that must be applied against this total. A check was drawn in the amount of $1,092 and forwarded to the Prospect Heights Hospital in Brooklyn in compliance with their request that the special round-the-clock nurses be paid by the day. Only a portion of this was used, and a refund should be received in the near future. The fund will also pay medical and hospital expenses above the amount allowed by Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Approximately $20,000 of the funds money was placed in interest bearing U. S. Treasury Notes. Mr. Alfred Ronder has agreed to serve voluntarily as auditor for the Santosky Fund.

The Santosky Fund Advisors shall continue to keep the public advised of their progress in establishing the Santosky Memorial Fund to help others who cannot help themselves.

Sincerely,
HARRY RIGBY

Schedule Second 'Night of Stars' For Rep. Resnick

Approximately 2,000 persons are expected to fill the huge night club at the Tamarack Lodge near Ellenville for a "Night of Stars," to be celebrated in honor of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, Sunday night, Sept. 25.

Top names in the world of show-business will be on hand to provide the very best in entertainment.

A similar event was held in Congressman Resnick's honor two years ago during the 1964 campaign. More than 1,500 persons from every corner of the 28th Congressional District turned out for the first "Night of Stars" to see a program headlined by Nipsey Russell, world famous comedian.

Norman Tennenbaum, spokesman for the committee on stars, said this morning that although final arrangements for this year's festivities were not complete, the plans being drawn up were bigger and more spectacular than ever. He said the show would include the very best in live entertainment, plus dancing to two orchestras.

Tennenbaum said the program was for relaxation only and that there would be no political speeches of any sort.

Checks and money orders for tickets may be mailed to P. O. Box 284, Ellenville.

Floyd Patterson Crown, Car, Other Articles Stolen

The summer home of Raymond Patterson, brother of former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, on Springtown Road, Town of New Paltz, was entered some time over the weekend and over $46,800 in valuables taken.

Included in the missing articles is the heavyweight crown of Floyd, which is reported to be valued at $35,000, and a 1966 Chrysler New Yorker sedan. All of the missing articles are reported to have been the property of the former heavyweight champion.

Probe Begun

Ernest Alberg of New Paltz notified the sheriff's office of the burglary Monday and an immediate investigation was begun. The entrance is under investigation by Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone.

The property on Springtown Road, New Paltz, was acquired by Raymond Patterson some time ago as a summer home.

It was reported the premises were entered some time between 7:30 p. m. Sunday and 7:30 p. m. Monday. A daily check of the premises is made.

Besides the heavyweight crown and car a quantity of jewelery was also reported missing. Included in the missing articles are 15 gold watches which were presented to the former champion by admirers and are all engraved "To Floyd Patterson from . . .", the names being of those who presented the gifts to the champion.

Worth $1,000

Among the gold watches missing is a man's watch valued at $1,000.

Taken from a jewel box is a quantity of men's jewelry, rings, cufflinks and other articles, the value of which is unknown.

Floyd Patterson and his brother Ray are presently in London where Floyd is preparing for a fight next week. Until his return and a complete check and inventory can be made the full value of missing articles will remain unknown.

Mrs. Patterson came to New Paltz last night after discovery of the burglary and assisted the investigating officers but was unable to inform the officers how much property was taken.

A safe was taken from the cellar of the home and carted to the upstairs living room where it was "peeled" and the contents taken. Whether there was any money in the safe is unknown but considerable jewelry was taken, some of which was dropped when the burglar left, including a pair of diamond studded cufflinks. The entire house was ransacked.

Entrance was made through a second story window where a screen was broken and the window opened.

The Patterson car bearing license 2-FP was taken from the premises and Investigator Thomas Mayone asks that anyone seeing the Chrysler car, call the Ulster County sheriff's office or notify local police.

There was no member of the Patterson family on the premises over the weekend.

An indictment, charging possession of marijuana in violation of the Public Health Law of the State of New York, against Sheldon Martin Block, also known as Shelly Block, was dismissed in County Court this morning by County Judge Raymond J. Mino. Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt moved for the dismissal and was joined in the motion by Charles Saccoman, counsel for Block.

Resnick Proposal

Bill Would Ban Abandonment of Hulk in Waterway

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville) today announced plans to introduce legislation making it a federal crime to abandon a hulk in a navigable waterway.

"I am prompted to introduce this legislation because of the disgraceful conditions I saw along the Hudson River during the task force tour which I conducted last weekend," the Congressman noted.

Rep. Resnick conducted a task force of federal and state officials on a fact finding observation tour of Hudson River trouble spots.

Resnick said, "We looked at possible boat launching sites, soil erosion, abandoned barges and hulks, federally owned islands and overgrown aquatic foliage."

He continued, "There is much that needs to be done and there is much that can be done to improve the Hudson River area. There is a dire need to install public launching sites, marinas, berths, etc. There is only one thing needed—action."

The task force included representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers, the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, the State Conservation Department, the U. S. Department of Interior and the Hudson River Valley Commission. The group met with local officials from Coxsackie, Hudson, Saugerties and Kingston.

Computer Specialist Gives Innocent Plea

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)— A 34 - year - old computer specialist has pleaded innocent to four federal charges in the $25,000 holdup of two women bank tellers July 29 in suburban Pittsford.

Werner Schenk of Irondequoit entered the pleas Monday in U.S. District Court. His trial was scheduled for October.

An indictment returned last month by a federal grand jury accuses Schenk of taking the money by force and intimidation, taking it with intent to steal, concealing or transporting it and jeopardizing the lives of the tellers by using a dangerous weapon, a revolver.

Schenk also faces state charges of first - degree robbery and grand larceny, which will be prosecuted later, a court official said. He is free on $2,500 bail in each case.

The German - born Schenk, married and the father of three, surrendered to FBI agents on a Rochester street corner eight days after the robbery.

A gunman accosted the tellers as they carried the money across a parking lot from the Pittsford branch office of the Security Trust Co. to a drive-in building.

Track Heads Call On Koota to Get 'Guilty Parties'

NEW YORK (AP) — The heads of three harness race tracks that figure in an investigation by Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Aaron E. Koota called on him today to "get the guilty parties and stop making a production out of it."

That was the large-type heading of a full-page ad in the New York Times in which the three trackmen addressed an open letter to Koota.

Possibility of Wiretap

The letter concluded:

"Throw the scoundrels out—but do not destroy a reputable sport and blacken the reputation of scores of innocent men just to get headlines in an election year."

The letter raised the possibility of wiretapping by Koota's staff with court approval.

Koota declined comment on the ad.

The letter was signed by the three track presidents — Martin Tananbaum, of Yonkers Raceway; Alvin Weil, Roosevelt Raceway, and Franklin E. Devlin, Monticello Raceway.

Under Koota's guidance, a Brooklyn grand jury is investigating suspected relations between professional gamblers and some drivers at the raceways, including the possibility of fixed races.

The open letter to Koota called on him to "stop hunting headlines and get down to business."

"Your headlines have accomplished nothing except undeserved wholesale character assassination," Koota was told.

"Is it fair," the open letter asked, "that hundreds of honest drivers and trainers should live under a cloud while you conduct a leisurely investigation which may take many months to conclude and which, as you stated on television, might not even wind up in an indictment, but only "in a presentment'."

The raceway presidents also told Koota:

Say Tactics Cut Crowds

"Your tactics in smearing the sport of harness racing has (sic) brought about a substantial reduction in track attendance and pari-mutual betting which will cause the state and local governments a loss of many millions in badly needed revenue; and will impair the investment of our public stockholders and deprive many persons of their employment. . . .

"If your staff stumbled on evidence in one of these taps that the Harness Racing Commission or the tracks did not have, get on with the investivation and indict the culprits—don't issue subpoenaes for headlines"

The ad also demanded that Koota "stop conducting your investigation in the newspapers" and "get on with the job with the secrecy which a grand jury investigation is supposed to have."

The track presidents demanded that if Koota knows of a criminal holding track stock, "let's have his name and he will be compelled to sell his stock by the Harness Racing Commission." The open letter added: "but let's not keep milking this one just to keep your investigation alive in the papers."

Names in The News

Gen. Bradley Remarries

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley and his new bride fly to New York today for their honeymoon.

Bradley, 73, and Esther Dora Buhler, 44, a twice-divorced screenwriter, were married Monday in a five-minute ceremony at the San Diego, Calif., courthouse.

The former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and his wife have known each other for several years, according to friends. They said the new Mrs. Bradley has been working on a screenplay of the general's life.

Bradley is chairman of the board of Bulova Watch Co. His wife of 49 years died last December.

Fischer Quints Are 3

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — The Fischer quintuplets celebrate their third birthday Wednesday — but their party will be out of the public eye.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, try to keep the quints away from gawkers. Residents of Aberdeen, their hometown, see them only infrequently, generally when they ride by in the family station wagon.

Friends say the quints talk a lot. Jimmy, the biggest, reportedly does the most chatting. His sisters are Cathy, Margie, Mary Ann and Maggie.

Sad Beauty Queen

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — "I'm just a has-been," Debbie Bryant said Monday as she enrolled at the University of Kansas.

Debbie was a year late getting enrolled. She toured the country last year as Miss America. Her reign ended Saturday night with the crowning of her successor, Jane Ann Jayroe, Miss Oklahoma.

When the Overland Park, Kan., native arrived on campus here, a dozen boys volunteered to carry her luggage. One said it would be an honor to carry Miss America's luggage.

Debbie replied: "I'm not Miss America any more. I'm just a has-been."

Pleads Guilty

Albert Lewis, 40, of 49 East Union Street, charged recently with assault and disorderly conduct, pleaded guilty today before City Judge Hubert A. Richter and is to be sentenced Sept. 30. It was alleged that he had created a disturbance downtown and had assaulted Officer Patrick Colbert. He had been originally charged with second degree assault, but pleaded to third today. Attorney Norman Kellar, assigned by the court, appeared for Lewis, and Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher for the prosecution. Sentence was put over to allow time for a pre-sentencing investigation.

Wrong Address

The address of Linda Sorci, 21, listed as 110 Fairview Avenue, after a traffic citation, was reported today to be wrong. No other address was noted.

More Violence; Negroes Battle Des Moines Cops

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — An estimated 300 Negro youths went on a wild rampage on Des Moines' near Northwest Side late Monday night, breaking windows and destroying property within an eight-block area.

The spree of destruction broke out after a high school cerebral palsy benefit football game at Drake Stadium, police said, when a mob of youths started obstructing traffic, poking fists through car windows at occupants and throwing objects at cars. Some 12,000 persons attended the game.

Sgt. Stanton Rodgers was struck in the back by a piece of broken cement about six inches square that had been hurled through the rear window of his police car. He was not seriously hurt.

Two youths reportedly suffered minor injuries.

Rodgers said he called for help, and police cars near the stadium moved in and kept the mob in motion as they moved down a street that borders the football field.

At least 12 private cars in the area were damaged, and about 10 homes had broken windows, police said. Three police cars were dented by flying objects.

Several blocks east of the stadium, the crowd milled around a drug store and broke two large plate-glass windows.

Store officials said a number of youths moved into the store and looted merchandise before police could clear them out.

Police managed to disperse the crowd early this morning, although there were periodic reports that rocks and bottles were being tossed at passing cars.

The area is near Good Park, scene of several outbreaks of violence earlier this summer.

Rejoin Severed Leg of Teenager; Wait for Outcome

By LORETTA MCLAUGHLIN
Boston Herald Medical Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors at Boston City Hospital have rejoined the severed left leg of an 18-year-old boy and are watching to see if the heroic effort will succeed.

To date, no attempt to rejoin a severed leg is known to have fully succeeded. It is believed that the first successful reattachment of a human limb occurred in 1962 at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston when surgeons rejoined the right arm of 12-year-old Everett (Red) Knowles.

The battle to save the leg of Jan Dangora began Sept. 1 when his left leg was cut off eight inches below the knee in a motorcycle - automobile collision. Only a small portion of skin connected the two parts of Jan's leg.

It's still to early to know if the replant will work—and that means not only healing but restoration of function and feel to some useful degree.

It was learned, however, that blood circulation has been fully restored.

His condition remains delicate and the fight for his recovery can be said to be only beginning, with the risk of secondary complications not yet out of the picture.

Details of the surgery and a progress report are expected to be presented later this week.

The complex surgery requires a nearly perfect application of known traumatic surgical techniques and refined blood vessel, bone and muscle rejoining as well as delicate attention to nerves.

Signs $1 Billion Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed into law the $1,005,842,000 military construction bill.

But he said he would seek revision of a provision requiring the administration to notify Congress before closing a military base "if future circumstances prove it to be inimical to the national interest."

The President vetoed one construction bill last year because of a reporting requirement but finally accepted a less strict version Monday requiring that congressional armed services committees be notified 30 days in advance of any base closing.

The new bill changes the advance notice requirement to 30 congressional session days. Johnson said this is in effect a flat bar against otherwise desirable base closings.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has irritated many congressmen by closing some bases.

The construction bill covers a broad range of military projects including housing.

Wants Trade With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says the United States — and not Communist countries — are hurt by Americans opposing the sale in this country of goods imported from the Communist nations of Eastern Europe.

The department referred in a pamphlet issued Monday to "an unrealistically simple view" of U.S.-Communist relations held by those who use black lists, boycotts, threats or picketing to halt such sales.

The pamphlet noted that Communist countries are expanding their trade with nations in Western Europe and said U.S. failure to trade with the Eastern European nations means a loss of jobs and income to U.S. workers, businessmen and farmers.

Antimissile Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has awarded a $256.58-million contract to Western Electric Co. to continue developing and testing an antimissile defense system.

The Pentagon said the contract covers design and development work and testing at the White Sands Missile Range, N.M., and operations at the Kwajalein test site in the Marshall Islands.

President Johnson and Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos are expected to agree at their White House meeting this week to reduce the term of U.S. military bases in the Philippines from 99 to 25 years.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will attend the opening of the San Francisco opera season Sept. 20, the first day of her four-day visit to three Western states.

American and United Air Lines have joined Trans World Airlines in ending free alcoholic drinks for coach passengers.

Arrest 12 Members Of Black Panthers

NEW YORK (AP) — A noisy demonstration outside a Harlem junior high school as the school year opened has resulted in the arrest of 12 young members of the Black Panthers, a militant Negro nationalist group.

It was the only such incident in the city Monday as more than a million pupils trooped back to classrooms.

Pickets in the group carried signs reading, "Be Strong Young Brother, the Panthers are Coming" and, "The Black Community Must Control the Neighborhood Schools."

They demanded that certain supervisory personnel be fired or transferred and that Negro history be included in the curriculum.

After a 45-minute demonstration outside the old cramped building on West 140th Street, police moved in and seized 12 persons for allegedly attempting to prevent children from attending the school. They were to be arraigned today.

President Signs Peace Corps Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told Peace Corps volunteers today he hopes to see a day when "some form of voluntary service to the community and the nation and the world is as common America as going to school, when no man has truly lived who only serves himself."

Johnson drove to Georgetown University where 97 volunteers are in training for service in Brazil, and made his remarks in signing the Peace Corps authorization there.

The bill authorizes an appropriation of $110 million for the fiscal year which started July 1 and provides for 16,000 volunteers and trainees. This compares with 14,800 volunteers and trainees in the last fiscal year.

Recalling that this is the sixth time a president has signed a Peace Corps Act, Johnson said there were doubters at the beginning but the doubters today are much quieter.

He said Peace Corps volunteers in 50 countries have proven them wrong.

Give Protection To Mississippi Negro Students

GRENADA, Miss. (AP) — The highway patrol has been called to protect Negro children attending newly desegregated schools.

Patrolmen stepped into a virtual law enforcement void after a day in which white men, swinging ax handles and chains, attacked Negro children leaving the schools.

The 175 burly officers, in full riot dress, took over Monday night. They dispersed one hostile crowd early today. A white man who argued was slugged unconscious and carted off in an ambulance.

The crowd dispersed reluctantly, with cries of "Nigger lover!" and "I thought you were a good Mississippian!"

Several hundred whites, shouting defiance of both state and federal authority, held a furious session Monday night in the City Hall auditorium to demand that the patrol be withdrawn.

"If you get that state highway patrol out of here there won't be a nigger left in Grenada," cried one man.

Mayor J. D. Quinn avoided replying to an angry query as to which official called for patrol aid. But he said the move was necessary, otherwise troops or U.S. marshals would have been sent in.

Vermont to Select Challenger for Hoff

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — Vermont voters concentrate today on picking a Republican challenger for Democratic Gov. Philip H. Hoff.

Less than half of the state's 210,000 voters were expected to go to the polls.

The battle between Richard A. Snelling of Shelburne and Thomas L. Hayes of Fair Haven for the GOP's nomination for governor has won almost all attention during the campaign.

The major issue between the two men has been the idea of a sales tax, with Snelling favoring it and Hayes opposed.

Both men have attempted to draw off into the campaign, but the governor has shown no apparent concern for the primary.

Hoff has no opposition in the Democratic party and has ignored charges made by either Snelling or Hayes.

Republican Rep. Robert T. Stafford and William J. Ryan, a Montpelier Democrat, are unopposed for nominations for Stafford's seat. Vermont's lone seat in the US. House.

Mail the Hard Way

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — After 11 months, numerous post marks, and several thousand miles, a package has arrived here for Lt. James A. Castle.

His family had mailed it from Cecilia, a community about 15 miles away, to Castle in South Viet Nam.

While it was en route, so was Castle. He had been wounded and was assigned to Ft. Knox. The travel-worn package had been rewrapped in California.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Post Office Expands Rural Routes; Needs New Quarters

NEW PALTZ — New Paltz Postmaster, Robert T. Johnston, announced this week that the New Paltz Post Office has created a third route for rural delivery, as a result of the growth in the New Paltz area, outside of the village proper, and that the town will need a new Post Office as a result of the growth of the town.

Johnston said that the two routes that had been in existence had become overburdened because of their great size, so the third route was created.

The old routs were 67 and 64 miles long, and had 577 and 664 mail boxes on them respectively. Thes new routes will be 46, 43, and 38 miles long and will have 450, 460 and 360 boxes on them. The differences in the size of the new routes, Johnston said, will cover the southeast portion of New Paltz, with the east side of the Wallkill River and the south side of Main Street being its boundaries. Route 2 will encompass the entire western side of the Wallkill River, and Route 3 will take in an area between the northern side of Main Street and the Wallkill River, in the Northeast Corner of the town.

Change in Addresses

Johnston said that it will no longer be necessary to put down the route number when mailing a letter to someone outside of the village, as all of the homes have house numbers now. For instance, where previously a person would have an address of RD 1, Box 600, now their address has been changed to 50 Butterville Road, New Paltz.

Presently, besides the three rural routes, there are four mailmen in the village. Three of these mailmen deliver mail to the residents of the town, while the other man delivers to the college. The college, Johnston said, is the primary reason why the post office has grown so much in the past few years. "It is our biggest customer by far."

"In the future," Johnston said, "regardless of the growth in New Paltz, all mail carriers will be motorized. This is so the parcel post deliveries (over two pounds) and the mail deliveries can be made by one man.

Growth Noted

The postmaster said that during his three years as postmaster he has seen about a 40 per cent increase in postal receipts in New Paltz. Last year New Paltz had a 13 per cent increase, despite the fact that there was no increase in the price of sending mail.

Presently there are 20 employes working at the post office, including the postmaster. This represents an increase of five over the last three years. Johnston explained though that this increase came about primarily because of federal regulations, which required that postal employes receive time and a half for overtime. The result has been, the postmaster explained, that instead of giving the workers time and a half, more postal employes had been hired. Another reason that there are so many employes at the post office is because it is open on the basis of a six day week, 12 hours a day while an employee only works a five day week, eight hours a day.

Next year, Johnston said, he expects to see a need for a new post office in New Paltz. When the additional 1300 room dormitories open up at the college. "This will be a little too much for us to handle," he said, "so the new facilities will have to become available."

A special meeting of the board was held Friday night, Sept. 9, so that work may begin immediately.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This year Reno's Golden Spurs for depicting the Old West were awarded to John Wayne and A.C. Lyles. This prompted several citizens to ask: Who is A.C. Lyles?

He is the sole survivor of a doughty tribe, the makers of program westerns. Years ago, nearly every studio employed producers to turn out regular programs of westerns starring Buck Jones, Tim McCoy, Johnny Mack Brown, etc.

Today only Paramount's Lyles remains in action, and he has put some modern touches on the old western.

He's no old-timer, excepting in years of service. A deeply tanned, balding 48, he claims to have started his career with Paramount at 10 as call boy in a company theater in his native Jacksonville, Fla.

He graduated to usher and at 17 made the big leagues to the mail league of the Hollywood studio.

A.C. went on to the publicity department and for 15 years razzle-dazzled the press on behalf of William Pine and William Thomas, colorful producers of Paramount's B's.

It was a good school for learning how to squeeze a production dollar.

"I can get more on the screen for less money than any producer in town," Lyles boasts, and he could be right. His westerns are crammed with recognizable if slightly faded names and they are filmed in first class sets.

How does he get the names?

"Friendship," explained the producer, who has one of the widest acquaintances with stars in Hollywood. "Also, we fashion the scripts so that each character has at least one good scene. Thus I've been able to lure names like Pat O'Brien, William Bendix and Brian Donlevy to do one day's work because they have good scenes."

He borrowed a trick from mentors Pine-Thomas and uses sets that have been built for big-budget films.

3 UR Officials Fired

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) —The top three staff members of this city's Urban Renewal Agency were fired Monday night.

The agency's nine-man board, in a 5-to-4 vote, discharged Robert A. Cox as development administrator, Morton Abramowitz as deputy administrator and Lewis W. Branche as community information director.

Daniel W. Collins, the agency's director of planning, was named to succeed Cox, who assumed his post last December. He will be paid $14,000 a year, $5,000 less than his predecessor.

No replacements were named immediately for Abramowitz, who drew a salary of $17,500, or Branche, a former newspaperman, who received $12,000.

The firings reportedly resulted from a series disagreements between Cox and other city officials.

Kin of Rocky, Spouse Appear in Court

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Ann Rockefeller Pierson, the oldest daughter of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and her Episcopalian minister husband, Rev. Robert L. Pierson, were in State Supreme Court Monday but the reason for their presence was not revealed.

The Piersons have been living apart for a year, but neither they nor court officials would give an explanation for their apearance in court.

Accompanying Mrs. Pierson, 30, was her mother Mary, Rockefellers' divorced wife. They sat in the same courtroom where Rockefeller's present wife, Margaretta, tried unsuccessfully to win custody of her four children from her first husband, Dr. James Murphy.

Rev. Pierson, 38, rector of St. Barnabas Episcopal Church in Newark, N.J., sat in another courtroom with his attorney.

Rev. Pierson did not meet with his wife during the day but their attorneys conferred several times with each other and with Judge Frank S. McCullough.

Reporters were kept away from the courtrooms where Rev. Pierson and his wife waited, and their attorneys refused to comment.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When ironing large articles, such as curtains, etc., fold a bath towel in half lengthwise and pin it (open side up) like a hammock to the edge of the ironing board cover at each end on the side next to you—thus forming a pocket.

Place the dampened article in the towel, which will keep it from drying out and out from underfoot.

As you iron, the article will be pulled away from you, taking the heat with it.

Mrs. J. B. Elliff

Ladies, this is truly a wonderful hint. I appreciate it most when ironing my long tablecloths. It was a chore to iron the end which always partially dried out.

That little old "towel-hammock" really solved the problem!

Bless you, Mrs. Elliff.

Dear Heloise:

You know how elusive the end of a piece of sticky tape can be on the roll?

After you have cut off a piece of tape, lay a paper clip across the roll and put the end of the tape over it.

No more problems finding the end or getting it started just give the clip a turn and the tape is loose.

Dear Heloise:

My husband tacked a piece of foam rubber across the bottom rung of our stepladder.

This way, when he backs down the ladder, it is easy to feel when he has reached the last step. Quite a safety factor.

Dear Heloise:

When I want to air a coat or jacket outside on the clothesline, I put two hangers in opposite directions in each garment.

The two hooks act as a lock on the line and the wind does not blow the hangers off.

Dear Heloise:

This is for young mothers (with more than one child) who find it difficult to keep up with the cute sayings and acts of their little ones.

I have found it convenient to use my appointment book (or calendar) to jot down what took place, on the date in the book.

This way I don't forget anything, and can pass them on to the grandparents.

Dear Heloise:

When you (or your child) need some tracing paper, but you are all out of regular tracing paper, try air mail paper.

It works just as well, and is less expensive.

Dear Heloise:

I have a bottle of red nail polish—but I don't use it on my fingernails!

I put a little dab of it around the "spray point" which is hard to see on some bottles and cans.

I have a spot of the polish on my insecticide spray bottle, hair spray, etc. (Some years back, before I started doing that, I sprayed some room deodorant right into my eyes.)

I also put a dab of the polish on each side of my snap clothespins. I live in an eight-unit apartment, and others use the same clothesline. Now it is so easy to tell which are my pins.

Ruth Loomis

Dear Heloise:

I save plastic bags which small things (such as sweaters or underwear) come in. I have just one or two pieces of clothing to sprinkle, I put them in these bags until I am ready to iron.

They keep the clothes just damp enough and are easy to handle and store.

Dear Heloise:

To help lengthen the life of bed sheets . . .

Pin a small safety pin in the hem at one end of each contour sheet and put this end in at the foot of the bed.

The next time that sheet is used, make the bed so the pin is at the top of the bed.

This way you can rotate your sheets and remember how you used them the last time.

Negroes Show Drop In Number of Jobs

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —Despite the most intense campaign ever mounted to help the Negro worker, through education, training and law, the latest government figures show a paradox: Negro joblessness has risen.

So unusual is the turnabout after five years of steady improvement that the possibility of statistical error presents itself. Attesting to the accuracy of the figures, however, is the government's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Sharp Rise Noted

The bureau says that in August, joblessness among nonwhites— most of whom are Negroes—rose to 8.2 per cent of the number employable, more than twice the 3.4 per cent unemployment rate among whites.

The high percentage, in itself, worries the administration even though nonwhite joblessness has been twice that of whites for years.

Of even greater concern to the administration is the apparent end of a five-year record of improvement. The unemployment rate for whites grew no worse.

If these figures are not corrected or disproved, they carry potential meaning about the Negro racial revolts which sociologists say have origins in idleness, poverty, frustration and despair.

The increase in the Negro unemployment figures comes in a "full employment" economy, one in which the emphasis has been not so much on finding jobs as on finding workers.

Throughout the economy, Negro abilities are being upgraded through personal efforts and through training programs by government, unions, corporations and others.

Jobs Most Immediate

The most immediate aim of the war on poverty is jobs through programs such as the Job Corps, the work-experience program and the adult basic education program.

In addition, equal opportunity laws are being enforced.

A few months ago it was believed that as the labor market tightened, the Negro would benefit more, proportionately, than the white. The theory was that as workers became more scarce employers would be less selective. They would accept unskilled workers and upgrade them to the requirements of the job.

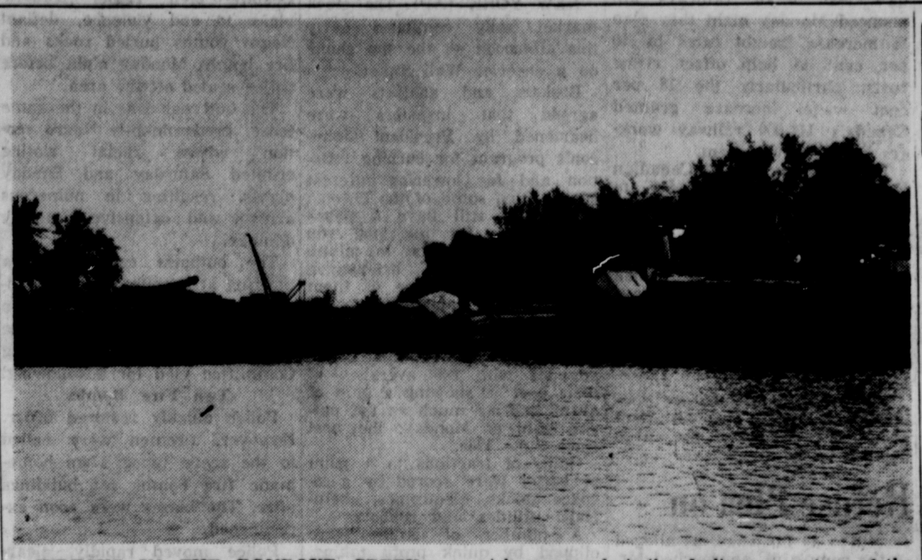

As the figures show, the Negro apparently has not benefitted, in this manner, to the degree expected.

Many theories will be offered. Perhaps it could be the inroads of automation or cost cutting. Or it could mean the elimination of service jobs through social change. It could be, of course, just a temporary, unexplainable statistical situation.

Loans to Needy

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The state hopes to make $4 million available in the next two years for loans to needy and deserving students in colleges, nursing, vocational or business schools. A new statute sets up the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority.

WRECKS IN THE RONDOUT CREEK—These sunken barges, all too common along the Hudson and especially Rondout Creek, are not only an eyesore but a definite hazard to motor boat enthusiasts. Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick expressed similar feelings on a tour of the Hudson Friday and said he would propose legislation to make it a Federal misdemeanor to abandon hulks in a navigable waterway. Community Chest Executives Meet With Labor Heads

AFL-CIO labor leaders met with members of Ulster County Community Chest to discuss Central Labor Union Council endorsement and support for the fund campaign. Frank Coyle, AFL-CIO CSA liaison staff, met with the president of the Upper Hudson Area Central Labor Union Council, Harold Van Etten, at a special meeting here on Wednesday. Wilfred G. Springer, executive director of the Ulster County Community Chest and labor leaders expressed concern for full support and are planning a special meeting later on this month to discuss ways and means for affiliates to participate more fully.

Through the AFL-CIO community services program, countless thousands of union members are encouraged to know, use, and improve community health, welfare agencies, while thousands of others serve in hundreds of voluntary capacities with their local services. In its concern to strengthen the community's welfare and health services, as well as to see that money contributed by union members will do the most good for the greatest number, the AFL-CIO Community Services Committee has issued the following guidelines to giving.

Wherever possible, all national and local health and welfare appeals should be combined into a once a year, community-wide united fund campaign.

All money raised should be given through careful community planning and budgeting.

Agencies supported through voluntary contributions should prepare an annual audit.

Contributions should be truly voluntary, with giving based on a person's convictions and capacity to give.

Fair share standards of giving be determined by the local community, and that labor's standard of giving be decided locally by labor.

The use of payroll payment plans should be encouraged. Such installment payment plans enable contributors to spread their gift over a longer period of time.

Annual on-the-job solicitation to have AFL-CIO members sign authorization cards should be a joint labor-management undertaking.

Also members of organized labor should receive their fair share of recognition for gifts contributed.

All segments of the community should be represented on the boards of those social agencies affiliated with the fund, including labor representation.

Agencies depending on the general public for financial support should provide services and assistance on the basis of need, and should serve all people regardless of race, creed, color, social or economic level.

Fund-raising costs — the actual amount of money it takes to finance the annual fund appeal should be reasonable.

It is taken for granted that all solicitors will be community volunteers and that there will be no payment of commissions for funds raised.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Police stopped two fire trucks returning from a false alarm recently and ticketed the drivers for not having license plates on the engines.

A spokesman for the private fire department says the engines have never had plates.

Makes Easy Alimony

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee County is considering opening a drive-in window for convenient payments of alimony.

"This might be an incentive for a man to make his payments current," said Francis X. McCormack, clerk of courts, Monday.

McCormack said the idea, to be studied by a county board committee, would "help a lot of people."

An alimony payer "wouldn't have to double park, jump out of his car, run into the courthouse and stand in line to make his payment," he said.

Gemini Shot At-A-Glance

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Facts and figures on the three-day flight of Gemini 11:

Pilots — Cmdr. Charles (Pete) Conrad Jr. and Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr, both 36-year-old US. Navy fliers

Launching — Gemini spacecraft at 9:42 a.m. Monday, minutes earlier, at 8:05 a.m. Both launches were delayed 16 minutes by difficulty sealing one of Gemini's hatches.

Rendezvous — Mission's prime goal accomplished by the spacecraft's unprecedented first-orbit rendezvous with the Agena 80 minutes after liftoff, a record.

Docking — Gemini 11 claims a second record with three link-ups with the Agena within three revolutions of the earth. Also, first successful docking with copilot at the controls.

Today — Gordon's 115-minute space walk at the end of a 30-foot lifeline, test of gas-powered hand tool as "space mechanic," photographic experiments.

Community . . .

ter and a Child Care Center. The Town of Wawarsing has already granted space for offices and group meetings. In Rondout such space is being negotiated with the cooperation of Urban Renewal authorities. In Highland, St. Augustine's Church has offered space for the anti-poverty program and space is being sought in Saugerties

Initially the service centers will be in the form of part-time offices where referrals can be made, where poblems can be discussed and where solutions can be found. A housing coordinator, a manpower and employment counselor and an educational consultant will be available through these centers for assistance with special problems. A Neighborhood Youth Corps recruiter and counselor will also be part of the center staff.

After Congress acts it is hoped that these centers will become full time operations. According to Charles W. Jorgensen, executive director of UCCAC, the purpose of the programs devised by the residents of the disadvantaged areas is to help the residents to become self supporting and independent. "The response by the residents is enough to restore one's faith in his fellowman, regardless of how poor his circumstances may be," he said.

The last aspect of the program already proposed is the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Already, guidance counselors from every Ulster County School District have indicated a total of several hundred school dropouts and potential dropouts eligible for the NYC program. Because most of these are unable to find work these young men and young women will be recruited to work in public and prival social agencies and departments.

The agencies and departments have already requested a 150 of these workers for significant tasks. By law these new workers may not be used to replace presently employed personnel. Besides the work records and money gained from this employment, these youth will attend regular counseling sessions to help them with their advancement.

They will be required to continue in training courses with several varieties of options. This program is to be administered by the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County. Robert Stubbs, general secretary of the County YMCA and Jorgensen will be in New York on September 13 to attend to final details at the Regional Neighborhood Youth Corps headquarters. The first placements under this program are expected about Jan. 1.

The staff for all aspects of the initial proposal of the anti-poverty war will reach about 40. These came from vocations where skilled workers are in great demand. Thirty of the 40 will come from the ranks of the beneficiaries of the anti-poverty program. Careful training schedules are being developed to give these workers the necessary abilities. Beside the 40 there will be 150 youth in NYC.

"This does not mean that the problem of poverty has been overcome in Ulster County, Meyers said. "Our work will not duplicate the functions of existing agencies. In fact our relations with all the departments and agencies concerned have been just fine. Our main push will be for demonstrations in some aspects of poverty that have so far resisted solution. In prospect are other proposals for treating still untouched areas, both geographical and functional. These will have to wait until we see what Congress does," Meyers concluded.

Scientists Will Measure Nevada Quake Aftershock

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Scientists took to the field today to measure the aftershocks of a strong earthquake felt Monday in three states.

No deaths nor injuries were reported.

The tremor was strongest in the Sierra near Reno and the California border. A slight shock also was felt in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dr. Alan S. Ryall, seismologist at the University of Nevada, planned to take a crew to a spot about 10 miles west of Reno to measure aftershocks. They'll attempt to pinpoint the center of the quake and the strength and direction of earth movements.

Damage was minor. Southern Pacific Railroad tracks were closed for seven hours by slides in the Sierra that brought down boulders as big as houses. Interstate 80 also collected its share of boulders.

The watermaster at Boca Dam in California escaped with his wife and child as parts of their house collapsed. The dam was not damaged. At the nearby Prosser Creek Dam on the Truckee River, a crack appeared on the crest and inspectors started looking closely at the earthfill structure. They said there was no danger to Reno, 30 miles downstream.

The quake at 9:41 a.m. broke the seismograph at the University of Nevada. It was recorded at 6.5 on the Richter scale on the University of California seismograph in Berkeley. There is no theoretical top to the Richter scale, but 8.5 is the highest ever recorded.

The shaking lasted about one minute and aftershocks were felt for about two hours.

Plaster fell from the ceiling of the Nevada State Assembly at Carson City. The earthquake also jolted the California Capitol in Sacramento.

Vetoes U.S. . . .

dent's proposals to the committee in the opening hearing.

Johnson announced his veto of the insurance bill at a hastily called news conference in his office saying, "At a time when we are making every effort to reduce low-priority federal spending in other areas, this bill cannot be justified."

May Shake Belief

"Many members of Congress share my belief that our anti-inflationary efforts must include restraint on spending," he added. "The measure I have vetoed today is totally inconsistent with our common goal."

Johnson said if similar benefits were extended to all American workers by their employers "we would be fueling the fires of inflation by nearly $3 billion."

He said average federal salary and insurance benefits had risen by 75 per cent in the past 10 years — more than half again as much as the 47 per cent increase in average factory worker pay.

"The bill goes far beyond my recommendations — and far beyond anything the American taxpayer should be asked to pay for at this time," Johnson said. He had recommended a $12 million insurance benefit increase.

Sixth Veto

The veto was the sixth of his presidency and second within eight weeks. The last bill he rejected would have granted cost of living increases to star route, or contract, mail carriers.

Johnson also said reaction to his tax credit and depreciation program had been good, and that "yes, I think it will pass."

Fowler insisted at Monday's hearing that the main purpose of the program is to curb inflation, not to raise the $2 billion in revenue which suspension of the tax advantages would bring.

He left the door open for possible tax hikes later, however, by observing: "We cannot offer blueprints for future programs. The only prudent course is to maintain a flexible, step-by-step approach."

Plan Second Slice

Schultze said the administration would make a "second slice" in spending after Congress is further along on appropriations for the fiscal year which began July 1. Eight major money bills are pending.

About $1.1 billion of the cuts from delays and postponements of building and other capital investment.

His statements were taken to indicate that the oft-criticized $1.75-billion poverty program and $5.7-billion school aid programs were so far being spared from cuts.

proceed on schedule, the planning and construction phases of the project could be completed within three to four years. The Assemblyman also pointed out that the Rondout Valley Central School District is now studying possible sites for the construction of a new school in the Rosendale area, and that one of the proposed sites is located in the vicinity of the new bypass route. Wilson said if the school should be located on that site, the new road would be a great asset to the school district.

Study Land Purchase

Returning to the question of land acquisition, Assemblyman Wilson said the DPW is now in the process of purchasing land along the Rondout Creek in the Village of Rosendale for a forthcoming flood control project, and that he has been assured by the State Director of Flood Control, Horace Evans, that despite some local critics the work is progressing as quickly as possible, and that the actual project is still slated to begin this year.

Sweaty Gordon

Cernan returned to the cabin after a record 2 hours, 10 minutes, about 30 minutes shorter than planned.

On Gemini 10, Michael Collins was outside 30 minutes, but had to call the stroll off 25 minutes early because the spacecraft fuel supply ran low.

Collins also had to curtail a space stand—in which he poked the upper half of his body through the open hatch. That was caused when chemical fumes got into the suit life-support system.

Gordon plans a 140-minute space stand Wednesday to take photographs of stars.

Gordon opened the hatch of the speeding Gemini 11 spacecraft as it zipped 185 miles above Southern California at 9:44 a.m.

"It's a beautiful day," he exclaimed.

After some trouble getting out, he moved to an Agena satellite, attached to the Gemini nose and sat astride it like a cowboy on a horse.

After resting a few minutes, Gordon recovered a radiation-measuring package from the side of the spacecraft and handed it into the cabin to the command pilot.

He mounted a movie camera on the side of the craft to record his movements and then pushed a short distance away from the ship.

He went over to the Agena and straddled it, resting again before attaching the 100-foot cord.

"I'm breathing hard," Gordon said.

"Just take it easy," his flying companion told him.

Reports Both Fine

After a few minutes, Gordon's breathing started to settle down.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, the flight surgeon, monitored the health of the astronauts in the control center and reported both were doing fine.

He said that Gordon's heart rate raced to 162 beats a minute and Conrad's to 120 in the initial phase of the walk. Both normally have readings in the 70s.

Officials said Conrad reported the astronauts spent several hours unpacking and hooking up all the gear for the walk, including a 30-foot lifeline to feed Gordon oxygen from the cabin supply system, and a chest pack with an emergency supply of the life-giving gas.

They finished the preparedness half an hour early and Conrad told the ground:

Ahead of Schedule

"We're way ahead of schedule. We're going to power down for a little rest."

Conrad said the No. 8 thruster — the same one which locked open and sent Gemini 8 into a mission-scrubbing spin — appeared to have "pooped out." He said when he tried to use it to yaw left the spacecraft responded with a right roll.

Will Test Thruster

Flight control said the balky thruster would be tested on a pass over Carnarvon, Australia, to determine if the problem was electrical or mechanical — perhaps a stuck valve.

There was no apparent concern for the mission. Controllers said astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Conrad lost two thrusters and partial use of a third during the Gemini 5 flight.

They specifically pointed out that the problem was the opposite of that which occurred during Gemini 8, when the thruster stuck open and started the ship spinning, forcing an early splashdown in the Pacific.

This followed two minor problems still with Gemini 11.

Pilot Richard F. Gordon Jr. was given permission earlier to wipe a dirty windshield during his first of two scheduled space walks.

Red Guards Meet

People's Daily urging the Red Guards to stop using force and asking others to accept the cultural revolution was not taking effect.

Chou's removal from his post as vice chairman was indicated by the New China News Agency when it failed to mention that post as one of his responsibilities. However, Chou was included on the Politburo's powerful standing committee in the latest list of government leaders.

From Hong Kong came reports from travelers to Red China of mass suicides last month in Canton and Shanghai due to molestation by the Red Guards.

Ulster to Have Invalid Stickers In Case of Fires

Residences in the Ulster Hose No. 5, Fire District, in which an invalid resides, will be marked with a sticker for the information of firemen who may be called to the residence in case of fire.

The sticker, placed in a position which any firemen can see it, will notify the firemen that an invalid is inside the premises and needs assistance in being removed from the premises.

The stickers are now available and application may be made to the fire department and a fireman will visit the premises and place the sticker in a proper location.

In the event of an emergency the sticker informs the firemen that an invalid is in the premises and needs assistance.

Will Raise Fees On Strike-Hit Canadian Rails

MONTREAL (AP) — Canada's two major railways announced Monday night they plan to increase freight rates by 10 per cent to help offset rising costs, particularly the 18 per cent wage increase granted Canada's 118,000 railway workers by the government.

The privately owned Canadian Pacific Railway (CPR) also announced it will raise commuter fares by five to 15 cents a ticket, starting Sept. 17.

A joint communique issued by the CPR and the publicly owned Canadian National Railways (CNR) did not refer directly to the wage boosts granted by the government Sept. 1 in legislation which ended a seven-day nationwise rail strike.

The freight rate increase goes into effect Oct. 10 and will affect about 30 per cent of the cargo handled by both railways.

Refuse Plea on ferred to as Lois had, as alleged in the complaint, approached Mr. Burger and that, posing as complainant, she rented the apartment at a rate of ninety dollars per month. The complaint alleges that Lois first rented the apartment from Mr. Burger, and that afterwards, when she told Mr. Burger that she had rented it for a friend, he had approved. The complaint continues by stating, "Lois then told Mr. Berger (sic) that her girl friend was Negro. Mr. Berger refused to let the apartment be rented to a Negro."

"Lois' account of this second contact with Mr. Berger contradicts this allegation of the complaint. It was learned from Lois that when she returned to Mr. Burger to tell him that she had rented the apartment for a friend, she spoke to him without interruption, informing Mr. Berger that she had rented the apartment for a Negro friend. According to Lois, there was no initial approval by Mr. Berger of her action, with a subsequent refusal to rent when he found that her friend is a Negro. In fact, it is clear from the information furnished by Lois, that Mr. Berger's refusal was based on the fact that the apartment had been rented to her and to no other person.

"It is clear that Mr. Burger felt that he had been deceived in this attempt to rent the available apartment. There had been no prior discussion between Mr. Burger and Lois, posing as Mrs. Hawkins, which gave Lois permission immediately to sublet the apartment to another person, nor is there any reason to conclude that such action would have been allowed by Mr. Burger at any time during the course of his transaction with Lois, whom he knew as Mrs. Hawkins.

During the course of this investigation it was learned that respondent, Mr. Burger, had during the same week as the alleged incidents took place, been under a severe strain because of the illness of a close relative and that, after he had refused to allow Lois' friend to have the apartment, he had been immediately subjected to a series of harassing telephone calls and to picketing by groups of people outside his home.

"I do not feel it reasonable to expect that a landlord in these circumstances, aware that a deception had been practiced upon him, distraught because of a relative's illness, and undergoing the harassment of anonymous threatening telephone calls and picketing, which he felt was totally unjustified, should feel well disposed toward the person or persons whom he felt to be responsible for most of these annoyances. Hence, while Mr. Burger was asked during this investigation to rent the available apartment to Mrs. Hawkins, he was firm in his refusal to do so.

The issue to be determined is whether Mr. Burger refused to allow the apartment to be sublet because the prospective subtenant is a Negro. There is no evidence to uphold such a conclusion. In fact, throughout this investigation and before this complaint was filed Mr. Burger continually declared his rental policy to be non-discriminatory. No evidence has been uncovered to contradict his avowal of such a policy, while evidence has been presented which directly contradicts a crucial point in the complaint. In view of the above, I cannot conclude that Mr. Burger refused to rent this apartment to complainant out of consideration of her race and color.

Upon the record herein taken as a whole, there is no probable cause to credit the allegations of this complaint charging unlawful discrimination. I therefore order that complaint be dismissed.

In accordance with Rule 5 of the Rules Covering Practice and procedure before the State Commission for Human Rights, the complainant has the right to apply to the chairman for a review of the decision on this complaint. If such application is made, it must be in state specfically the grounds upon which it is based and must be filed within 30 days from the date of the mailing of the notice of disposition in the office of the Chairman, 270 Broadway, New York, New York.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally continued early this afternoon as the sun shone on a cheerier Wall Street.

Brokers and analysts were agreed that investors were heartened by President Johnson's program for curbing inflation and for lowering interest rates. Even some of the chronic bears who still have a pessimistic view for the long run urged their clients to climb aboard a traders' bandwagon for a ride which one of them said "could carry 50 to 80 points."

Blue chips and glamor stocks advanced together in a broad advance with the averages at their best — showing a gain of about half as much as the outsize gain of Monday, the best since June 1965.

Gains of fractions to a point or better were scored by aerospace stocks, electronics, chemicals, utilities and rubbers

A number of issues were clipped by quick profit taking, slowing the upward drive around mid-session.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.8 at 288.2 with industrials up 2.8 rails up .3 and utilities up 1.5.

A jump of 3½ by Du Pont gave the stock averages a husky boost. Also helpful to these indicators were gains of about a point by General Motors and Goodyear and a 2-point hop by United Aircraft.

Negro Leaders Can't Control Riots in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Despite civil rights leaders' pleas to end violence, defiant Negro youths hurled rocks and fire bombs Monday night before police sealed off the area.

The outbreak was in the same tense, predominantly Negro section where racial rioting erupted Saturday and Sunday nights, resulting in numerous arrests and extensive property damage.

The outburst came after a meeting at a church where leaders from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee vied for a following.

Two Fire Bombs

Police quickly restored order. However, firemen were called to the scene twice when homemade fire bombs set buildings afire. The blazes were soon extinguished.

Police moved rapidly, clearing sidewalks and even porches. A cold, drizzly rain helped. By midnight, the area was quiet.

Police questioned suspects in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday night of a Negro teen-ager, Herbert Vorner, considered the spark that started the rioting.

At the meeting, Hosea Williams, political action director of the SCLC, was shouted down with cries of "black power!" Some 100 of the militant youths walked out of the Tabernacle Baptist Church when Williams spoke. They later returned.

He stressed the need for independent thinking and hit hard at the need for education and economic betterment.

Blames Whites

SNCC speakers, however, condemned authorities and white men in general, blaming them for the Saturday shooting.

Willie Ricks, SNCC field secretary, said, "We're going to have every cracker in Atlanta on his knees. We're willing to pay the price."

Minutes after Williams finished speaking, bottles, rocks and firecrackers began to fly. One group of Negroes attempted to overturn a station wagon with a CBS television crew inside.

Ben Clarke, a member of the SCLC, talked the group away from the car.

Earlier in the day, Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. met twice with groups of Negro leaders, and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. toured the riot area.

Stokely Carmichael, national chairman of the SNCC, remained in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond. He is charged with helping instigate the first outbreak of violence last week.

Gruening Lacks Faith

Sen. Ernest Gruening D-Alaska, a critic of Johnsons' Viet Nam policies, said, "I don't have any great faith in those elections considering that Mr. Ky (the premier) said only neutralists and non-Communists could vote.

"That's pretty much like holding an election in the South and saying only Democrats could vote," he told a newsman. "It's difficult to judge an election in a country where they've never had an honest election."

Gruening said, however, the results "might be very good if the government is responsive to the desires of the people."

State Department reaction was guarded. A spokesman said, "Progress toward constitutional government in the face of Communist infiltration and terror require the courage and interest demonstrated in yesterday's vote."

Resnick Challenges Fish to Debates

The office of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today announced that the Democratic candidate for re-election in the 28th Congressional District had challenged his Republican opponent, Hamilton Fish Jr., to a series of radio debates.

According to Resnick's office, the challange was extended Monday at a "Meet the Candidates Night" at Wappingers Junior High School in Dutchess County.

John Barry, Fish's campaign manager, said that Resnick was the incumbent and that Fish was the challenger but that Fish would accept Resnick's challenge and would debate him anytime, anywhere, on any subpect.

Short Selling Carries Bullish Implications

Q) "My neighbor, a security salesman, has confused me about short sales. I've always thought that speculators who sold short did so because they believed their stocks would fall in price. But my neighbor said a lot of short selling is a bullish factor. Please explain." R. McC.

A) Gladly. As you have indicated, selling short is a device for speculative profit-taking in the expectation that a stock will slump in price. Selling shares at high levels, temporarily borrowing those shares through a broker in order to make delivery, and finally buying them back at a lower price will make the anticipated profit. On the face of it, a stock heavily sold short would appear to be ripe for a fall. But if too many people think the same way, they may be in for a real surprise. Eventually, a short seller must "cover," or buy back the shares he has sold and return what he has borrowed. So the stock in question has a built-in reservoir of buying power. Periodic covering by shorts helps to support prices. Should the stock's outlook suddenly brighten, other buyers may push the price upward and the shorts will be "squeezed," or forced to take a heavy loss by covering in a rising market. So your neighbor is correct. When overdone, short selling can easily have bullish implications.

Q) "I've been advised to sell 75 shares of General Motors, costing $79 a share and 75 St. Oil of New Jersey, costing $54.75, in order to buy into a mutual fund. What would you advise?" T.C.

A) Hold your two blue chips which are providing you with satisfactory income. There is no reason to take a loss in such high-quality issue. When another bull market gets under way, these stocks should again prove their merit as market leaders. If you are interested in acquiring shares of a proven mutual fund, these also could work out well for you over a period of time.

seemed to be breaking down.

Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden was considered a likely candidate for the mission to Salisbury. He was expected to inform Smith of the result of the London conference, including any new measures taken against him.

Wilson's program reportedly includes a compulsory U.N. sanction against Rhodesian exports of tobacco, asbestos, chrome and pig iron and a ban on the sale of oil to Rhodesia.

Informants said Bowden would tell Smith he has until the Sept. 20 opening of the U.N. General Assembly to make up his mind.

The British prime minister also reportedly proposed the formation of a Commonwealth watchdog committee to supervise every stage of the attempt to bring down Smith's white minority regime and replace it with black majority rule. There are 225,000 whites in Rhodesia and 4 million black Africans.

Wilson's proposal reportedly includes a period of direct British rule through the governor general, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, and the formation of an interim government of African leaders and Europeans willing to collaborate.

Finally the Wilson plan calls for the writing of a constitution to provide for government by the African majority.

Has Statistics

Rockefeller embarked on the capaign trail armed with statistics showing his administration's disbursements of state aid and the scope of public works projects in communities along his route.

His oft-repeated argument is that local taxes would be higher, except for the increased aid, and that various construction projects have improved the economic standing of the areas he visits.

The governor capped a campaign tour of eastern Long Island Monday with a 75 mph ride in a gas turbine-driven Long Island Rail Road car.

"Within three years," Rockefeller declared later, "we shall have 500 new electric cars streaming between Long Island and New York City at speeds up to 100 mph."

Throughout the day, Rockefeller extolled the benefits he said his administration has brought to Suffolk County. At the same time, he kept up his criticism against what he termed bossism by "the tired old hands in the Democratic party who seek to recapture control of the state."

Jose Melis Will Give Concert Here On 29th

JOSE MELIS

The Kingston Area Jaycees will present Jose Melis and company in concert on Thursday Evening, Sept. 29, in the Kingston High School Auditorium.

All benefits will go to the Kingston Jaycees' Youth Activities Fund which supports such programs as the Orphans Christmas Shopping Tour, Junior Sports, Teenage Safe Driving Rodeo and the Jaycee Little League among others.

Tickets are now on sale and may be purchased from Richard Rydstrom, general chairman, or from any member of the Kingston Jaycees.

The talented Cuban-American began the study of music at the age of three under his mother's direction. He entered the Havana Conservatory when six and was graduated four years later as a teacher. His first public concert came in his seventh year. Impressed by his precocity, the Cuban Government granted him a scholarship for study in Paris. Subsequently, he won a contest which provided him with study under the eminent French pianist Alfred Cortetl.

After his sojourn in Paris, he returned to Cuba briefly appearing widely and performing with the Havana Symphony Orchestra. From there he traveled to Boston for study under the harpsichordist Erwin Bodky. During his three years stay in that city he appeared as a soloist with the Boston "Pops" Orchestra. Still further study followed at New York's Julliard School under Joseph and Rosina Lhevinne.

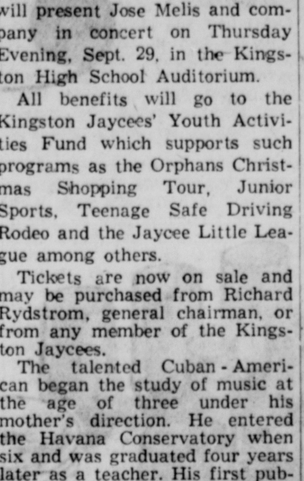

Besides being an accomplished musician in the classical field, Jose is one of the most exciting interpreters of current American and Latin "pop" music on the entertainment scene today. He is a master of technique, but his technical ability does not displace the motional elements of his performances and he is noted for his sensitive renditions.

Jose is also an outstanding composer, writing in both the "serious" and the "pops" fields. Here, too, he is completely artistic and individual. Often he blends classical forms with the modern idiom combining both into a delightful whole. One of his most unique and ingenious accomplishments is to offer a familiar tune as it might have been composed by various classical masters, but cleverest of all his stunts is his ability to translate any telephone number chosen at random into a raceful melody.

Jose's real career began after service in the U. S. Army. After a brief civilian stint as musical director for a USO camp show, he moved directly into the popular field with appearances in New York and other leading entertainment centers. He toured a circuit of fashionable niteries and hotels across the country, meeting with astounding success wherever he appeared.

Many will remember him as the musical director of the Jack Paar show on NBC-TV.

Out-of-Town Relatives Included At Dinner Before Boyfriends And Girl Friends

Dear Mrs. Post: My niece was recently married in a city 1,000 miles away. My parents are financially strained as well as old and infirm. My husband and I decided we could get them there by car and were happy with the wonderful knowledge that they would see their oldest and first grandchild married. We arrived on Thursday (the wedding was scheduled for Saturday) and had a reunion with my family.

Friday night came and no one from the other side of the family called or invited us to the rehearsal dinner set for that night. My parents felt terrible. My dad even rented a white jacket and dark pants and mom bought a lace dress on sale.

Am I being sensitive or immature or am I justified in feeling that they (the groom's parents) treated us shabbily and with extreme rudeness? If they could afford all the extra boy friend and girl friends of the bridal party, couldn't they have at least invited my parents, if not my husband and me, to join them? — Mrs. G.

Dear Mrs. G.: You are justified in your feelings. The groom's family were inexcusably rude to leave you and your parents out. If, that is, they knew you were to be there. It is just possible that the blame lies with your sister or the bride, who might have neglected to inform the others of your arrival. Even in this case, you should have been invited at the last moment, after your reunion on Thursday. I'm sure it was a sad mistake, rather than an intentional slight. Try not to hold a grudge which could mar the young couple's happiness.

Must Mother Second Invitation?

Dear Mrs. Post: A 16-year-old girl in my son's' class at school invited him to spend two weekends with her family. I do not know her parents but have met the girl. Was I correct in asking her to have her mother call me before giving my permission? —Mrs. F. C.

Dear Mrs. F. C.: Although it is always perfectly correct for a parent to second a youngster's invitation, it is not considered necessary when the one invited is a boy.

Women's Club Sets Program By Consul General's Wife

MRS. CONSTANTE BATOON

One of the busiest clubwomen in Washington, D. C., Mrs. Constante V. Batoon, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Woman's Club of Saugerties on Thursday, Sept. 22 at 8:15 p. m. in the Dutch Arms Chapel of the Reformed Church of Saugerties. Members, guests and all women of the Saugerties area are invited to hear Mrs. Batoon's talk, "Bouquet From the Philippines."

Mrs. Batoon, wife of the Consul General of the Philippines, has received wide recognition for her dedicated efforts to help promote "people to people international friendship" through global cultural understanding during the more than 25 years she has lived in the United States.

Among her many honors, she has been selected as:

The first and only International Daughter of the Year, an award given her in 1961 by the Sons and Daughters Foundation, which gives annual awards to outstanding Americans.

The first and, for many years, only non-American member of the Board of Directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, with a membership of 11,000,000 women all over the world.

The first and only non-American who served on the Board of Advisors of Cultural Matters to the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The organizer of WISE (Women's International Speakers from Embassies), a unique group of diplomatic wives who are dedicated to cultural diplomacy for better international understanding.

Held Elective Positions

In more than 21 years of active participation with the General and District of Columbia Federations of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Batoon has held several elective positions in the latter. As a board member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs for 10 years, she has spoken before annual conventions of State Federations of Women's Clubs, as well as other local organizations throughout the United States.

Mrs. Batoon has been active as volunteer worker with the American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, Anti-Tuberculosis Society and CARE.

In December, 1941, when Mrs. Batoon and her husband were returning to the Philippines, the ship they were on was torpedoed and sunk near Honolulu on the second Sunday after the attack on Pearl Harbor. They have never forgotten the benevolence and generosity of the faculty of their alma mater, the Colorado State College of Education in Greeley, who cabled them money through the Governor of Hawaii and requested him to help them get jobs until they could get back to Greeley.

Allied Volunteer

Since then, Mrs. Batoon's great interest has been to promote "people to people international friendship." During World War II, after eight moths' stay in Honolulu, they returned to the United States, where Mrs. Batoon represented the Philippines as a volunteer in the combined efforts of the Allied Nations to provide entertainment for the Armed Services by directing and presenting fashion shows, musical and folk dance program, and acting as hostess at USO Stage Door Canteens, hospitals and Army camps. She also helped in War Bond drives and fund-raising campaigns for cultural, welfare and civic organizations. This latter activity she has continued until now, along with presentation of international cultural programs for better understanding among various peoples of the world.

Mrs. Batoon obtained her M. A. degree from Colorado State College of Education in 1941; her B. S. in Education degree from the University of the Philippines. She has also taken post-graduate courses at Columbia University and American University in Washington, D. C.

Aside from the social demands on her time as diplomatic wife, she finds ample time for her home-making activities. Her latest hobbies are hat making, cake decorating and flower arranging.

Set Open Meeting To Explain YMCA Sponsorship Here

The Sponsoring Committee of the Saugerties YMCA will hold an open meeting at 8 p. m. this Wednesday in Roger Donlon Auditorium, according to Harry Bubnack, chairman of the committee.

The purpose of the meeting will be two-fold. Members of the Sponsoring Committee will first explain the ways in which a YMCA could be started in Saugerties and the variety of programs it could sponsor. The committee will also solicit the help of those interested to serve on certain committees to move the YMCA's program ahead. A film on a modern "family-centered" YMCA program will be shown.

"We are all aware of the rapid growth taking place in our community and in the whole of Ulster County," Bubnack said. "The Saugerties YMCA Sponsoring Committee beileves that a 'people' oriented service agency like the YMCA is needed to serve our youth and adults of today as well as to do special planning for tomorrow."

Toward this end, the Sponsoring Committee is inviting all citizens of Saugerties who are interested to attend the open meeting Wednesday. Clubs and organizations in the community which are service-oriented are particularly urged to have representatives in attendance. J. Paul Sturtevant, chairman of the Extension Committee of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, said members of his committee as well as staff members from the Kingston YMCA would be present to answer questions and to assist in any way possible. The YMCA is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

KHS Football Team Has Several Rebuilding Problems

MY DADDY'S A YANKEE — From the expression on the face of four-month-old Michele, she is pleased to be sitting on the lap of her illustrious daddy, Mike Ferraro. Another rookie, John Miller, who made Yankee history with a home run his first time at bat in the majors, came to Kingston with Mike to enjoy a day off in the schedule. The Bombers return home tonight to oppose the Washington Senators. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr).

Here on Day Off

Ferraro, Miller Tell About First Week in Major Leagues

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

"When Manager Ralph Houk told me I would be starting against Baltimore, my heart started beating fast and I broke out in a sweat." With these words, Mike Ferraro described his indoctrination into major league baseball.

Now a major leaguer for one week, Ferraro told of his experiences in Baltimore and Boston, his great thrill in playing with and against the likes of Mickey Mantle and Frank Robinson and of his hopes in sticking in the "big time."

Mike and John Miller, the first player in the history of the Yankees to hit a home run his first time at bat in the major leagues, spent Monday in Kingston and returned to New York early today with their wives and Michele, the four-month-old daughter of Mike and Pam Ferraro.

The former Kingston High star said the players recalled by the Yankees from Toledo arrived in Baltimore late last Tuesday afternoon and didn't arrive at Memorial Stadium until after 6 p. m. "We had been traveling all day and had read in the Baltimore newspaper that we probably wouldn't see action during the series," Mike said.

A Pleasant Surprise

"When I went to my locker, I put my baseball cap on to see if it fit. At that moment, Manager Houk called me into his office, asked me if I was ready to play and then put my name in the lineup. It was a thrill I will never forget," he added.

Ferraro said he hastily got dressed, went to the batting cage, took a few swings and played the entire game. "I was hungry but wanted to play," he related.

Mike's first major league hit came in his second game, on his sixth trip to the plate. "Darryl Brandon (Boston Red Sox hurler) threw a fast ball and I hit it good, over shortstop and to left field. It felt wonderful."

Ferraro said the Yankee players, both veterans and rookies, have treated him well. He has become a close friend of Joe Pepitone and said that Joe's antics tend to keep the team lose. "He's always kidding around, riding the others and having fun. But, once the game starts he's all business," Ferraro said.

Houk Commands Respect

The Yankee rookie told of the respect Manager Houk commands and gets from his players, of the autograph seekers Mickey Mantle has to avoid in each city and hotel and of the difference in playing Triple AAA ball and baseball in the majors.

"Those major league infields are so smooth and the lights are greatly superior. We travel first class and accomodations are the same way," he added.

Miller, who is making his initial visit to New York State, saw Yankee Stadium for the first time late Sunday night, when the team arrived from Boston. He's from California but has been impressed by the beauty of Kingston and the surrounding area.

Miller and many baseball buffs weren't aware of his record breaking feat Sunday when he hit a drive down the left field line at Fenway Park and cleared the short wall for a home run. "It's quite an honor to be able to do something that such great players as Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio, Mickey Mantle and others didn't accomplish," the shy soft-spoken Miller said.

Miller is a first baseman-outfielder. He began the season in Columbus and was promoted to Toledo when the Yankees recalled Steve Wittaker.

Ferraro and Miller are two of the rookies who have made an impression during the past week. Shortstop Bobby Murcer, first baseman Mike Hegan and pitcher Stan Bahnsen are the others.

How does it feel to be the first player from Kingston since 1926 to play in the major leagues? "It feels good and I only hope I can stay," Ferraro said.

Senior Citizens To Receive Free Hunting License

Free, permanent small game licenses will be available to senior citizens — persons 70 years of age or older — about Sept. 15, the State Conservation Department announced today.

Last year these free hunting licenses were available for the first time. Actually, issuing clerks took regular 1965-66 small game season licenses and marked them "free" for 13,214 senior citizens. This year the Department removed the need for further annual visits to issuing clerks by preparing permanent licenses which need not be renewed.

An applicant for a permanent free hunting license must be a citizen and a resident of New York State. When he visits his local license-issuing agent, he should bring along both proof of age and proof that he has previously held a New York State hunting license, or that he completed a hunter safety training course.

The Conservation Department emphasized that no big game licenses are issued free of charge.

A round robin tournament will be played in October to determine the club champion.

The new season for inter-club competition gets under way Oct. 7, with four teams in the northern section and four teams in the southern group. Double rounds will be played.

The sectional winners meet to decide the overall championship. Kingston will be represented by two teams.

Maroon to Open Season Sept. 23 Against Albany

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

With that Thanksgiving Day victory over Newburgh Free Academy still ringing loud in their ears, Kingston High grid candidates have the momentum as they prep for the opening game of what promises to be a rugged slate. The locals entertain Albany High in an 8 o'clock arclighter on Friday, Sept. 23 at Dietz Stadium.

Head coach Bill Hurley, starting his fourth season at the helm, is facing a rebuilding task and most of the problems will be on offense, beginning with the quarterback slot.

Brian Bach, who did an excellent job in that position, has been graduated. He's now matriculating at the University of Connecticut.

Four hopefuls for the position are Joel Tomson, Ron Valle, Pete Watzka and Mike Hoffman. The latter, only a sophomore, is a solid prospect but his progress has been hampered by a slight muscle pull. Tomson and Valle played jayvee ball and Watzka is a newcomer.

Boggs at Fullback

Gerard Boggs, an All-DUSO lineman in '65, will be the probable starting fullback on offense. He has good speed and is solidly built. Boggs will captain this year's squad.

The only other returning first stringer is center Russ Suppies. Halfback Bill Dugan is back at halfback. He's a hard nosed gridder who can grind out the extra yardage.

Those who saw varsity action and earned letters are end Jack Baltz, tackle Richard Clausi, guard Tom Primo, backs Greg Rios and Ken Scherer and Don Cashdollar, a defensive player who will back up Boggs at fullback.

Because of the inexperience and lack of depth, Hurley is counting on many of the first stringers to play both ways, a rarity in today's football.

Boggs will play defensive guard. Clausi will go both ways at tackle. Primo plays guard on offense and linebacker on defense. Baltz and Tim Bowens, who saw action last season, are two-way ends. Suppies switches from offensive center to defensive linebacker and Mike Weishaupt figures to go both ways at tackle. Dugan and Rios will man the halfback slots both offensively and defensively.

Candidates also include Howard Carleton, Jerry Corrado, Jules DeLuca, James Esposito, Randy Kelder, Dennis Klonowski, Harry Lyons and Frank Rahm.

Many Key Losses

In addition to Bach, the losses are heavy. They include backs Lou Perry, Eli Basch, Dave Bunch and Gene Rios as well as linemen Bill Buddenhagen, Gene Smith, Brooke Jenkins,, Sam Fratoni, Jack Schatzel, Mike Smedes and Bill Halterman.

"The key to our season rests with the offense. If we can get a quarterback who will do the job, we have the backs who can carry the ball," Hurley said.

Joining him as an assistant for the first time is George Neher, former Saugerties High star.

The schedule is a tough one. In addition to Albany, the locals oppose New Rochelle, the defending Metropolitan champion; Cardinal Farley, a DCSL powerhouse and Vincentian Institute, the Catholic School powerhouse from Albany. Poughkeepsie, a former DUSO member and now in the DCSL, is also on the slate.

There are only three league games and one less eliminates a team from title contention.

Of the four home games, three are under the lights (Albany, Port Jervis and Vincentian). Only Poughkeepsie will be met in the afternoon. The road games (New Rochelle, Cardinal Farley, Middletown and Newburgh) will be day contests with the traditional Thanksgiving Day contest with the Goldies scheduled for 11 a. m. in the Hilly City.

Brandy Time B. Is Photo Winner

MONTICELLO — There's only five more nights of racing left at Monticello Raceway this season but the finishes are still close as ever. Take last night's feature fourth race as a for instance when no less than four horses were right across the track at the end and the camera had to be called on again.

The picture saw Blue Chip Stable's Brandy Time B. a head winner over Shipshape Lobell, Overtime and Freight Shot. They were separated by two noses with the mile in a creditable 2:06.4.

The action in the feature, a $1,500 pace for two-year-olds, was plentiful too. The lead was held mostly by the winner but there were plenty of colts on the move throughout.

Driver ... Cormier sent Brindy Time B. to the front at the outset. Around the first turn, he gave way to Al Burton's Overtime but went back on top again at the paddock turn. From there, the brown daughter of Right Time—Port Bay was never to be headed again.

Shipshape Lobeil, moved three wide around the last turn by Reinsman Howard McCullough, gave it a game try as did Overtime and Clint Hodgins's Freight Shot. But their bids all fell short by a total of three feet.

In taking the feature, Brandy Time B. posted her third win of of year. This was a new record for her also, her previous best being 2:07.2. She returned $7.20, 4.20 and 2.60 across the board.

The 2 and 4 daily double paid $41.80. Winning horses were ...vy Hanover in the first and ...din's Gem in the second. The ...in double returned $1,682.40. Winning combination was 1-7-6-1 and there were 12 live tickets.

The Sire Stakes, highlight of the evening's harness action in New York State, moved to Vernon for a week-long stand after a similar program at Batavia Downs.

Rose Dutchess edged Sondra Joy by a length and won the trotting event for 2-year-old fillies in 2:06 3-5. Walter's Jeannie was third. Rose Dutchess returned $3.40.

LA Blue Berets Halt New York Mets, 3-2

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Black Maxers have dived underground, but the Blue Berets are soaring higher and higher.

Two members of the Blue Berets, relief pitchers Ron Perranoski and Phil Regan, wiped out the New York Mets Monday night and helped the Los Angeles Dodgers to their fifth straight victory, a 3-2 decision.

The triumph increased the Dodgers' National League lead to 1½ games over second-place Pittsburgh and 2½ over third-place San Francisco, both idle. In the only other game, California edged American League-leading Baltimore 6-5.

The Black Maxers are — were possibly may be more accurate — a group of Pittsburgh Pirates whose viewing of the film, "The Blue Max", triggered post-victory clubhouse antics that involved such wearing apparel as imitation German medals, Word War I flying helmets and floppy hats.

The Maxers, however, toned down their victory celebrations after the antics were criticized.

The Blue Berets, on the other hand, carry out their antics on the field, and the only criticism they get is from the teams they beat.

The Berets, the Dodgers' brilliant relief corps that received the name because of the team's blue hats, merely sit out in the bullpen, wait until a Dodger pitcher gets trapped in the middle of enemy fire, then come in and snuff out the threat.

Wrote Fight Song

Regan, whose 13 victories and 16 saves make him the best Beret, even wrote a fight song for the group, a parody of the song of the Green Berets, a branch of the U.S. Army now fighting in Viet Nam.

Perranoski and Regan got the call Monday night with the Dodgers trailing 2-1. Perranoski struck out the first six men he faced, tying a league record for relievers, then blanked the Mets for two more innings, as Los Angeles grabbed a 3-2 lead.

When the left-hander gave up a leadoff single to Ken Boyer in the ninth, Manager Walter Alston called on Regan. The right-hander got pinch hitter Chuck Hiller to force Boyer at second, then ended the game by inducing Cleon Jones to ground into a double play.

Jim Fregosi drove in five California runs with a double and a grand-slam homer, but the Angels needed a disputed run in the eighth inning for the victory over the Orioles, who dropped their fourth straight game.

Bob Rodgers dashed home from third as second baseman Dave Johnson threw out Willie Smith at first and slid under the throw home from first baseman Boog Powell. The Orioles argued vehemently and unsuccessfully that Rodgers was out.

Sanders-Arnold Win Exhibition

Doug Sanders of the PGA professional circuit teamed with Dutchess amateur Dick Arnold to defeat former PGA champion Dave Marr and amateur Bill LaForte, 2-up, in an exhibition match at Dutchess Golf and Country Club.

Sanders carded a 4-over-par 74, while Marr posted 77. The amateur scores were: Arnold 83, Laforte 78.

Laforte and Marr were 1 up after nine holes and 3 up after 12 but Sanders and Arnold took the next five holes. Tony Lema shot a 67 over the same course two years ago. A crowd of about 2,000 watched the exhibition.

'Y' Cage Officials To Meet Wednesday

A meeting of all YMCA basketball officials will be held Wednesday, 7:15 p. m., at the "Y". Those interested in officiating or scoring games are asked to attend.

At present, seven clubs have submitted entries for the circuit and others wishing to participate are urged to submit rosters as soon as possible.

Action is scheduled to commence the week of Sept. 26.

Knicks Hoping To Leave Cellar With Cazzie's Aid

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks, doormats of the National Basketball Association the past seven years, may have unlocked the door to the playoffs with the acquisition of Cazzie Russell, 1965's college basketball player of the year.

"We've now got a real good, young basketball team," said Eddie Donovan, general manager of the Knicks, who have not made the playoff since 1959. "We don't expect Cazzie to tear up the league, but we have a lot of hope for him."

The Knicks announced Monday that the former Michigan star had come to terms. Neither the amount nor the length of the contract was disclosed, but it was reported that the 6-foot-5½, two-time All-America will receive more than $200,000 spread over a long-term contract.

Russell was scheduled to report to the Knicks' training camp at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N.Y., today. He hasn't signed, but a club spokesman said this was a mere formality.

"We will start him off in the guard position," said Donovan. "We're not looking for him to take us out of the doldrums single-handedly. But we've got a good nucleus now with Willis Reed, Walt Bellamy, Dave Stallworth, Howard Komives and Dick Van Arsdale."

The Knicks, who made Russell their No. 1 selection in the NBA draft, outbid the Harlem Globetrotters, who also were after the services of the 22-year-old Russell.

"I'm no comedian," the newest Knick said. "I was seriously considering playing for the Trotters, but I'm going to enjoy the brand of ball they play in the NBA, and I'm looking forward to playing against Oscar Robertson, Bill Russell and Sam Jones."

The nation's third-leading scorer with 800 points and a 30.8 average last season, Cazzie finished his three-year career at Michigan with 2,164 points, the highest total in Big Ten history and the 13th highest in history among major college scorers.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

The Ulster County Seniors golf tournament is a big baby now and it's going to need an 18-hole course in 1967 or face a serious dilemma.

The nine-hour ordeal Sunday at Woodstock Country Club when 98 players went through the paces proved that the vintage tournament has outgrown a 9-hole layout.

Originally, there were 102 entries for the 1966 renewal but four last minute cancellations reduced the entry to 98, still an all-time record by 16. The 33-man entry in the freshman class (50-54) indicates that the frosh eligibles are not as reluctant to admit their age as they were ten years ago.

A move to eliminate the Class E group and make 55 years the minimum age for the tournament has been declared unconstitutional by the Seniors Association. To allay the fears of this outstanding group, it can be reasonably expected that an 18-hole course will be available in 1967.

This Is the Time:

This might be a propitious time for employes of the Rondout National Bank to hit the boss up for a raise. The president should be in an expansive mood after winning the 1966 Class A title with the second lowest score on Record—an 81. It has been topped only by Harry Hohnhorst's tournament record of 78 set in 1957. The pastoral Woodstock Country Club links remain a snare to those who try to overpower it. Three 78's—by Art Ellis, Bob Daley and Bob Merritt—were the lowest posted this season. . . Dr. C. J. (Skeets) Goffredi of Twaalfskill made his tournament debut by winning low net in Class E. Ditto for Bob Steuding of Wiltwyck in Class D. . . Ralph E. Gardner joined a select group in winning the H. F. King Memorial Award for distinguished service to golf and no man ever deserved it more.

The Pennant Fever:

At this stage, it would appear suicidal to pick the American League entry over the National League in the upcoming World Series. The Baltimore Orioles' ability to cling to a 10-game lead despite their recent travils reflects the sorry state of the American League. . . Golf Digest reports that the longest hole-in-one record in New York state this year was the 325-yarder by Louis Canestaro at Willowbrook in Cortland. The longest hole-in-one ever recorded is Bob Mitera's 444-yard ace at the 10th hole at Miracle Hill in Omaha, Neb. on Oct. 7, 1965. . . If you fancy yourself a good hunter, you can earn a $10 prize by shooting a wild turkey with a miniature radio transmitter attached. The transmitters were attached by the State Conservation Department for research purposes. However, getting more than a glimpse of a wild gobbler is getting to be a real challenge even for a skilled sportsman. Only one out of every 18 hunters took a turkey last season.

He's Shooting High . . .

Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins is shooting for a mark that only one other American League player ever accomplished: three batting titles in a row. Ty Cobb, the immortal, is the only one to do it. He was champion nine straight years (1907-1915) yielded to Tris Speaker in 1916 and came back to win three more in a row. . . Oliva, of course, is the first man ever to lead the American League in his first two years. Pete Reiser led the National league in batting as a rookie. . . . Honus Wagner, Rogers Hornsby and Stan Musial won titles three successive years in the National League. . . . Five times in the last 17 years the National League pennant race has been decided by one game. It could happen again. The biggest margin any National League pennant winner ever enjoyed was the 27½ game edge the 1902 Pirates rolled up over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers.

POME: The Packers came and thousands booed; and then the Colts became unglued.

DeStefano-Dr. Kovacs Capture Pro-Seniors

Charlie De Stefano, the veteran College Hill (Poughkeepsie) professional teamed with Dr. Charles Kovacs to capture the 1966 Northeastern New York PGA Pro-Senior championship Monday at Saratoga Spa Club.

De Stefano and Dr. Kovacs carded 31's on both nines to lead the big field with a sizzling 10-under-par best ball 62. DeStefano had one of his best days in recent years as he led the professional contingent with a 4-under par 34-34-68. He posted five birdies and had one bogey.

Four pro-senior teams trailed the winners by one shot.

Best showing in the Kingston area was the 33-33-66 carded by Ian (Scotty) Robertson and Charles J. Turck of Wiltwyck.

Pro-senior leaders:

Bruce Erwin-Dick Modden, Tee Bird, 30-33-63; Bill Gressick-Jim Howard, Catskill, 29-34-63; De Stefano-Ralph Manadillo, College Hill, 31-32-63; Irwin-John Novack, Tee Bird CC, 30-33-63.

Haughton Entry Sheppard Choice

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) — The Billy Haughton-trained three horse entry of Romulus Hanover, Nardin's Byrd and Tudor Hanover was made the 2-1 choice Monday to take Thursday night's renewal of the $100,000 Lawrence B. Sheppard Pace, the nation's richest pacing stakes for 2-year-olds, at Yonkers Raceway.

The Sheppard attracted a field of 10 with Romulus Hanover, owned by John Froehlick of Brockville, N. Y., drawing the No. 7 post position. Although Haughton didn't designate drivers for the trio he is expected to be up behind Romulus Hanover, who has paced one mile in world record time of 2:00 2-5 for a 2-year-old over a one-half-mile track.

Nardin's Byrd is owned by Arthur Nardin of North Bay Village, Fla., the Tudor Hanover races for Kenneth J. Beckerman of Hornell, N. Y. Tudor Hanover will start from No. 2 post and Nardin's Byrd from No. 3.

Best of All, winner of six of his seven races in the past two months and owned by Samuel Huttenbauer, is rated the best of the others. He'll go from No. 5 with Jim Hackett driving. The advance line quoted the son of Good Time-Besta Hanover at 5-1:59 3-5 and 1:59 2-5 in the Fox Stakes over the mile track at Indianapolis.

Others entered were, Mighty Ad, Red Wave, King Omaha, Toledo Hanover, Honest Story and Coral Ridge.

'46 Football Club To Honor Three

Members of the 1946 football team, the first of Bill Burke's championship elevens at Kingston High, will honor the late Russ Cunningham, Clarence Rowland and coach Burke when they hold their 20-year reunion Saturday, Sept. 24, at Williams Lake.

A plaque will be presented to Mrs. Cunningham that afternoon and Rowland and Burke will receive plaques at the dinner.

Members of the team must make reservations by this Saturday. They are also asked to attend the opening game of Kingston High, scheduled Friday, Sept. 23 at Dietz Stadium. Rowland, former member and president of the Kingston School Board of Education, will be honored that evening during the half and the '46 team will be represented at the ceremonies.

Asks Solons to Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional action was called for by Rep. Seymour Halpern, R-N.Y., today on proposals designed to help older persons meet their medical expenses.

He referred to July figures which showed an increase of four-tenths of one per cent in the Consumer Price Index but noted that medical costs almost doubled that average.

Halpern, in a speech for the House, said medical costs have risen by 3.4 per cent in the last six months.

Clay-Williams Bout in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay and Houston's Cleveland Williams are expected to appear in the Astrodome within the week, armed with ink pens instead of boxing gloves.

Promoter Earl Gilliam of Texas Boxing Enterprises confirmed Monday that Clay, the 24-year old unbeaten heavyweight champion, and Williams, 33, have agreed to fight in the Astrodome in November.

They still must sign a formal contract approved by the Texas Boxing Commission. Gilliam said they will sign it in the Astrodome "within a few days," adding that although the commission has not yet approved the match, he feels sure it will.

Target date for the fight is either Nov. 14 or 15, Gilliam said.

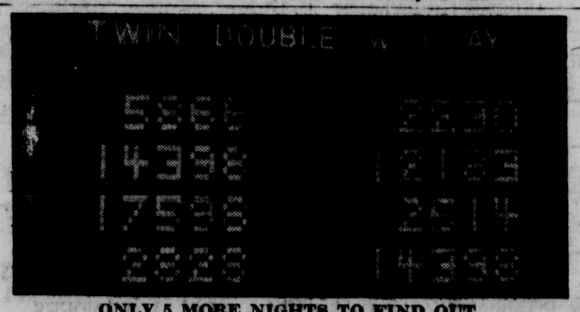

Honor Miss America

LAVERNE, Okla. (AP) — Main Street in Laverne will never be the same.

Bursting with pride over the town's most distinguished citizen, city officials decided Monday to change the name of Main Street to Jayne Jayroe Boulevard in honor of the new Miss America.

Letters to the 19-year-old beauty's home, which is located on the main street, will now be addressed to Miss Jane Ann Jayroe, Jayne Anne Jayroe Boulevard, Laverne, Okla.

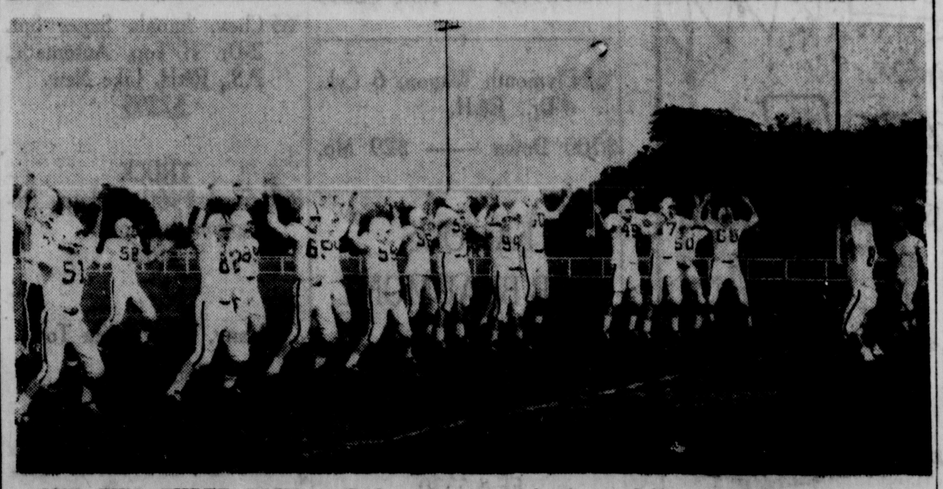

The beauty queen, whose name is listed as Jane Ann on her birth certificate, is known in her hometown as Jayne Anne or Jay-Jay.

HUNDRED ATTEND RIBBON CUTTING—The cheerful scene above was a prelude to one of the largest openings of the season in Woodstock. Occasion was the ribbon cutting ceremony which opened the Talented Art Program Traveling Student Show at Woodstock's Kleinert Gallery Saturday afternoon. Taking part in the event were (l-r) J. Terry Carlisle, assistant director of the new Mid-Hudson Regional Supplementary Educational Center, which has sponsored crafts workshops all over the area this summer; Mrs. Roger L. Stevens, wife of one of the country's most famous Broadway producers; Roger L. Stevens, the producer who now serves as advisor to President Johnson on the Arts and Humanities Committee; Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, who was instrumental in arranging Steven's visit here; Miss Shirley Downs, legislative assistant to the Congressman; and Dr. Raymond G. Kenyon, of Woodstock and New Paltz, director of the Regional Center. Later, hundreds of visitors toured the show which exhibited leather craft, jewelry, ceramics, sculpture, weaving and photography executed by elementary and secondary school students in TAP's summer workshops. Still later, Resnick hosted a mammoth party in honor of Stevens and his wife at his summer home in Woodstock. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Library Receives $60,000 From Marsh Estate; Plans Colonial Styled Addition

The will of the late Mable Van Alstyne Marsh, of Woodstock, provided, among other bequests, that 15 per cent of the residuary estate should go to the Woodstock Library "for the enlargement of the library." By oral request to her two executors, Miss Elizaebth Sheldon and Fred J. Johnston, Mrs. Marsh asked, just preceding her death, that any addition made to the library building be in the Colonial style, and that it be designed by Albert Milliken of Kingston.

Lawyers for the Marsh estate and the library have asked that these oral requests be respected, and the library, in gratitude for Mrs. Marsh's generosity, is happy to comply.

Upon examination of the building, Milliken said it would be impossible to add the proposed new extension to the front of the building without major repairs to the old section. Since the new addition will provide much of the greatly needed new shelf space, the executors have agreed that the term "for enlargement of the library" may be construed to include the repairs and changes without which enlargement would not be feasible.

Check Received

It was impossible for the library to make any definite plans or to give the public any information until there had been enough settlement made in the apportionment of the estate for the library to have some knowledge of what its share might be. The library has now received from the estate a check for $60,000 which has been deposited in several Ulster County banks.

Architect Milliken will soon submit to the building committee sketches and specifications for the approval of the trustees and the state executives and the Library can then acquaint the people of Woodstock with further details of its plans to make the Woodstock Library larger and more adequate to serve the community

Library president Mrs. Anita Goldberg said: "We know that our many friends and readers will rejoice with us in this great good fortune which has come to our town through the generous gift of one of its late, revered citizens."

Attends Institute

In connection with the new building program of the library, John Stefano, treasurer and trustee, recently attended the Building New Libraries Institute at Buffalo. Sponsored by the New York State Department of Libraries, the Institute was a week-long session of lectures, demonstrations and exchange of ideas, providing valuable information and insights that the trustees can draw on while planning the library enlargement. Stefano reported to the trustees at their regular meeting held Thursday, Sept. 8, at the library.

To Be Candidate For Councilman; Cites Town Needs

Dr. Audrey Hamilton, of Bearsville, has announced her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Town Councilman in Woodstock.

Dr. Hamilton, a long-time resident of Woodstock and a grandmother of seven, is a prominent member of the American Chiropractic Association and of the New York Chiropractic Academy. She has a Doctor's and Philosopher's degree in her profession and is an experienced Roentgenologist. Her busy practice in Woodstock has not kept her from active membership in the Business and Professional Women's Club of Ulster County, which she has served as second vice president and chairman of the membership committee.

In announcing her candidacy, Dr. Hamilton said "I strongly feel that a responsible two party representation in our town government is essential for the growth of Woodstock and the preservation of its unique cultural atmosphere and scenic beauty. I want to speak for all our residents at the Town Board and help in exercising much needed leadership in the many pressing local issues now before us. Within the present tax structure I firmly believe that an adequate Community Center and recreation program can and should be provided.

Zoning must be further strengthened and implemented by additional ordinances to limit excessive noise and enforce strict observation of sanitary codes. I also believe that police protection must be improved by increasing both the standards and salaries of our constabulary. There is no reason why sidewalks on our major and busy thoroughfares cannot be constructed and still hold the line on our tax rate. I shall work diligently for the ratification of the 'over 65' tax reduction for retired senior citizens. These and many other town improvements are entirely within the fiscal means of Woodstock by availing ourselves of the many state and federal aid programs which have heretofore been ignored."

Set GOP Caucus Next Tuesday; MacDaniel Runs

Abram Molyneaux, Town of Woodstock Republican chairman, announced today that the Woodstock Republican caucus would be held Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 7:30 p. m. in the Town Hall.

All prospective candidates should contact Molyneaux for the correct procedure for entering the caucus. As in the past, this year's caucus will require that all candidates have uniformly sized ballots.

To date, the only announced candidate for the post of Town Councilman is the incumbent, Arthur MacDaniel, of Shady. MacDaniel was recently appointed by the Town Board to fill the vacancy created by the death of Gottlob Wagner.

The Town Councilman's post is the only town position subject to this year's election. Molyneaux, in announcing the caucus, urged all enrolled Republicans to attend this year's balloting.

Slate Dr. Sam Trial

CLEVELAND (AP) — Judge Roy F. McMahon of Cuyahoga Common Pleas Court today scheduled Samuel H. Sheppard's second murder trial for Oct. 18.

He did not designate a trial judge.

Sheppard's defense attorneys said at an arriagnment last Thursday that they intended to file a motion this week for a change of venue, but the motion has not yet been filed.

McMahon said he was having difficulty in selecting a trial judge because both the prosecution and defense objected to any judge who is running for re-election on the November ballot. This eliminated 12 judges.

Other judges were ruled out for various reasons — one because he participated in the prosecution at Sheppard's first trial, another because he is related to prosecutor John T. Corrigan who will prosecute the retrial.

Sheppard is charted with second-degree murder in the bludgeon killing of his first wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954, at their home in Bay Village. He has pleaded innocent and is free on $10,000 bond.

Christian Science Topic Is 'Matter'

A lesson-sermon on "Matter" will be presented at Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Jeremiah: "Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains: truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel."

From the denominational textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, the following passages will be considered:

"Nothing we can say or believe regarding matter is immortal, for matter is temporal and is therefore a mortal phenomenon, a human concept, sometimes beautiful, always erroneous . . . The crude creations of mortal thought must finally give place to the glorious forms which we sometimes behold in the camera of divine Mind, when the mental picture is spiritual and eternal."

Sunday services in Woodstock are held at 11 a. m.

Senior Citizens Meet

A covered dish supper will open the fall season of the Senior Citizens of Woodstock.

The supper will be held Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 6 p. m., in the Overlook Methodist Church Hall, Tinker Street. As part of the evening's program, Victor Busch will show pictures of his travels through many states.

Psychologist's Views

Convinced Mind Can Leave Body, Pass All Barriers

By ROB WOOD

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A North Carolina State University psychologist is convinced the minds of many individuals can leave their bodies and drift away, uninhibited by physical barriers or distance.

The phenomenon is called astral (out-of-body) projection. Dr. E.E. Bernard, who is doing research on the phenomenon, said it is "like lying on a sofa, getting up and seeing your body still lying on the couch."

Can Be Projected

The mind, he said in an interview, may remain in the same room or be projected thousands of miles. Separation of mind and body may last from a few seconds to a few hours.

"These experiences definitely are not hallucinations," he said.

Dr. Bernard, 36, said he had uncovered one case where an individual experienced astral projection while sitting at a desk. The mind was projected to a distant city the person had never visited, he said. After the experience, the individual described in detail a street, an office building and the persons he saw.

Dr. Bernard said he investigated and found the street, the building and the people.

Dr. Bernard said his research is not aimed at proving or disproving astral projection because, "I am convinced it is a legitimate phenomenon. In fact I have experienced astral projection."

Collects Data

His first step is to collect data from persons who claim to have experienced out-of-body projection. Dr. Bernard claims he has uncovered several cases of individuals who have experienced astral projection once or twice and others he called "old pros" who "can turn this on and off and control the destination of their minds."

Those who experience out-of-body projection once or twice, Dr. Bernard said, "are afraid and worried."

"One individual thought death had called and this person was watching what he thought to be his own dead body. It was not.

"Many others," he added, "are worried they are losing their minds and refuse to tell anyone in fear they will be committed."

He emphasizes that evidence he has gathered indicates that mind projection causes no harm to the individual.

"Our objective," he said, "is to find how to produce the phenomenon, how to control it and how to put it to our most beneficial use."

Nixon Sees Ike; To Stump for GOP

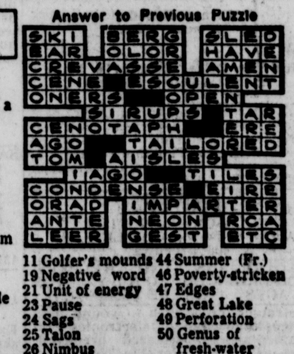

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for president in 1960 who is considered one of his party's leading candidates for the 1968 presidential nomination, begins a 34,000-mile trip today to campaign for GOP candidates in 34 states.

But although the trip may bring him valuable support for the nomination, the former vice president turned aside questions on his ambitions for 1968.

"Let's get 1966 out of the way first and then there will be plenty of opportunity to talk about 1968," he said Monday after meeting with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, under whom he served for eight years.

SPECIAL CAKE: When the wedding cake started, it was a special cake in Rome called the "confarreeto" which was broken over the bride's head after the wedding ceremony. The symbolism was that of fruitfulness since wheat is a prolific plant.

Light

Oh, give me the moonlight,
A balmy summer night.
Then give me the starlight
There shining bright
One wintry night,
The beauty of dawn,
And the bright golden sun.
Oh, Father of Light!

Say GE on Verge Of Making Pact Proposal to IUE

NEW YORK (AP) — The General Electric Co. is reported on the verge of making a contract offer to the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) which represents 79,400 GE employes.

Negotiations resume today in efforts to reach a new contract to replace the one expiring at midnight Oct. 2.

Top officers of the IUE, who returned here Tuesday from the week-long convention of the union at Miami Beach, said they expected a contract offer from the company within a few days.

The IUE planned to send back to the bargaining table its full negotiating team, which includes representatives of several other unions of GE employes, despite a court ruling last Thursday.

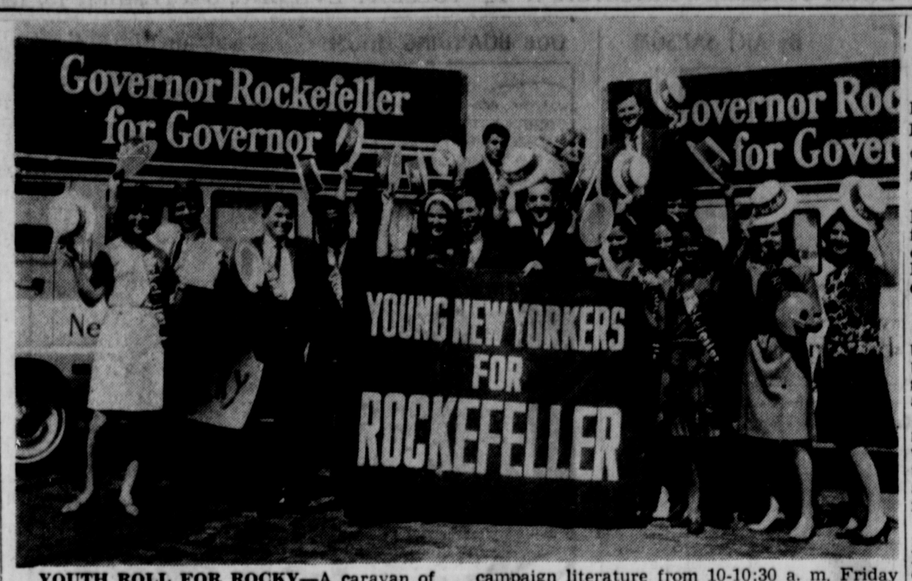

The U.S. Court of Appeals reversed a lower court order that the company must deal with the multiunion committee. The IUE has bargained with GE on a nationwide basis for years. The other unions bargained on a local basis up to now.

IUE officials said Tuesday they did not expect GE representatives to walk out on the multiunion team prior to a decision after a National Labor Relations Board hearing to be held here next Monday.

Pending before the NLRB is a complaint by the IUE that the GE walkout on the multiunion team in talks last May was an unfair labor practice.

The NLRB board put the complaint before U.S. District Court Judge Marvin E Frankel, who ordered the multiunion bargaining.

The Court of Appeals, in reversing Frankel, criticized the NLRB for going to court without first making a decision itself The Court of Appeals did not rule on the merits of the dispute over bargaining procedure, and it sent the case back to the NLRB.

YOUTH ROLL FOR ROCKY—A caravan of young Republicans campaigning for the re-election of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller is expected to arrive here at 10 a. m. Friday. The group of young voters sponsored by the Young New Yorkers for Rockefeller, will distribute campaign literature from 10-10:30 a. m. Friday and then will depart for Poughkeepsie. The State-wide tour started Monday in Buffalo and is expected to hit over 30 municipalities in seven days.

Term '65 Job Fabulous

Views Congress Action Lag Unusual in Election Year

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year Congress had a creepy feeling, and it's still creeping.

It was different last year. That was the up-and-at-'em year.

The Democrats, fresh from their election triumphs in November 1964, ran the show in 1965 with their overwhelming majorities in both House and Senate. President Johnson called Congress' performance last year fabulous.

86 Bills Passed

What it did was bound to change the social, economic and political life of the nation. It turned out legislation in a torrent, passing 86 major administration bills, including medicare, voting rights, aid to education.

Johnson's Great Society programs were off to a stunning start. Last year's was probably the most productive single session of Congress in history.

After such a deluge it was natural that Johnson this year wouldn't drown Congress in quite as big a flood of proposals as in 1965. And he hasn't.

But it would also seem natural that such a peppy Congress would still work with a rush, particularly since this is another election year with all 435 House seats and 35 Senate seats at stake. But it hasn't.

Dawdled All Year

It has dawdled all year, so much so that there's a good chance now it will have to quit temporarily in mid-October, so members can go home and politick for the November elections, and then come back for a lame-duck session.

(That session, since it would still be the present Congress, would include men defeated in November but none of the newly elected who can't take their seats until next year.)

But a lot of the members — starting perhaps last June — aren't waiting for mid - October to go home and try to round up votes. It's happening right now.

Monday in the House on a roll-call vote only 250 of the 435 members showed up. This concern about getting re-elected, and the work it involves, explains in part the slow pace of the present Congress. But not all of it.

Lost Magic

Johnson has lost much of his magic control over Congress, the kind he had in 1965 after his huge victory over Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964 had carried a lot of Democrats to victory with him.

At a time when Johnson's own popularity with the public is slipping, according to the polls, it has slipped in Congress, too, at least to the extent that the members are no longer so eager to say "yes, sir," when Johnson speaks.

One veteran observer of the House remarked: "A lot of these guys this year are not so anxious to have their vote, yes or no, on a piece of legislation because that only means that much more explaining to the folks back home."

At the same time Johnson's leadership hasn't been so concentrated as it was in 1965. He has to spend a lot more time with the war in Viet Nam. And he dawdled about doing something to head off inflation.

See GOP Limp

Last year the badly outnumbered Republicans, shattered and bewildered by their disaster in the 1964 elections and practically tongue-tied as a result of it, were so limp and mentally denuded that they actually quizzed outsiders for ideas to use against Johnson.

This year they gathered themselves together and are sniping, if not sharpshooting, at him.

That by itself spoils some of the smooth sailing Johnson had in 1965. Some major bills and appropriations measures still are awaiting action. One of Johnson's pet projects, the civil rights bill, seems all but dead.

When this session finally ends, Johnson may praise it but he will never be able to call it fabulous.

Mohawk Airline Request

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) —Mohawk Airlines is seeking permission from the Civil Aeronautics Board to fly directly to Chicago from cities in New York State, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island.

Airline officials proposed Monday direct, round - trip service between Chicago's Midway Airport and Albany, Binghamton, Elmira, Syracuse and Utica, N.Y., Eire, Pa., and Providence, R.I.

The Utica-based airlines also proposed to use British - built BAC 111 fan-jet aircraft on the flights.

Mohawk estimated that the new service would provide a $650,000 operating profit in the first full year and would reduce its need for federal subsidy in that period by more than $400,000.

Candidate Admits He Is Underdog

Sunday afternoon at Upper Hasbrouck Park, Glenn C. Van Bramer, Democratic candidate for the Constitutional Convention, took a peculiar stance for a politician. He admitted he was an underdog.

Introduced by Ulster County Democratic Chairman Aaron Klein as "one of the bright new faces on the New York political scene," he said, "I stand before you, out registered approximately three to two—a real underdog position. But I'm a fighting underdog. I pledge to wage a full-time campaign based on the critical issues facing our state. I'll be in every township in the county and will talk to everyone willing to listen. This is the most important election and fight in this election year."

He introduced to county Democratic leader his district campaign coordinator, Raymond A. Leonard of Poughkeepsie. Leonard is associated with a real estate firm in Dutchess County. He was formerly employed by IBM and served on that firm's Board of Governors. Twice wounded in action in Korea, he belongs to the American Legion and is commandant of the Dutchess County Marine Corps League.

"Van Bramer," Leonard said, "although an underdog, will win in November based on his positive stands on the problems facing the state." He cited Van Bramer's firm belief in a statewide primary to choose state candidates as an example.

Predicts FDR Jr. Planning to Wage 'Filthy' Campaign

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank D. O'Connor predicts that Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. will conduct a "filthy campaign" for governor.

"It's tragic, but I think Mr. Roosevelt will go further and further into the gutter as the campaign goes along," the Democratic nominee said Monday.

Cites Bitterness

"This is his mode of campaigning. It will be a filthy campaign. . . mainly because of his great frustration, desperation and bitterness."

O'Connor spoke at a sidewalk news conference about Roosevelt, who became the Liberal party's candidate for governor after dropping out of the race for the Democratic nomination.

O'Connor's remarks were in response to a question about Roosevelt's statement that O'Connor, New York City Council president, had outdone the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., "when McCarthyism was rampant."

"I refuse flatly to get down in the gutter with Mr. Roosevelt," O'Connor said. "These are wild, reckless charges."

Roosevelt declined through a spokesman to comment on O'Connor's statement.

O'Connor campaigned in the city Tuesday with Howard J. Samuels, the Canandaigua industrialist who is his running mate for lieutenant governor.

Among other developments in the Democratic and Liberal party campaigns:

— Louis Stulberg, president of the AFL-CIO International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) which has been a traditional mainstay of the Liberal party, said he doesn't expect his union will "spend any great amount of money for the governorship." Stulberg, contradicting a claim by Roosevelt, reaffirmed his opposition to his nomination.

— Roosevelt said O'Connor is using Martin Tananbaum, president of Yonkers Raceway, for campaign fund- raising. Yonkers Raceway is one of the harness tracks under investigation by Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Aaron E. Koota who is seeking to determine whether there has been any fixing of races.

— Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns was chosen Monday to head the Democratic drive to beat Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in his bid for a third term. It was learned that Burns, former Binghamton mayor, was almost the only man acceptable to all four statewide candidates and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Burns was chosen after three hours of organizational meetings conducted by Stephen E. Smith, Kennedy's brother-in- law and campaign coordinator.

Stulberg's statement about campaign funds pointed up the split among ILGWU leaders over Roosevelt's nomination by the Liberal party. David Dubinsky, whom Stulberg succeeded as union president, posed conspicuously with Roosevelt at last Thursday night's nominating convention.

Stulberg indicated the emphasis will be on congressional contests in disbursing funds for political action.

Roosevelt said Sunday on television that Stulberg had "come out publicly in support of my candidacy," but a Roosevelt spokesman added Monday that the comment was based on a Stulberg statement last week predicting that his union would "continue its traditional support of the Liberal party."
